Kauffman 'wet' heifer wins in E-Town storm

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

ELIZABETHTOWN — In a drenching rainstorm Thursday night, Steve Kauffman, R1 Elizabethtown, showed one of the area's "wettest" two-year-old Holsteins to the grand championship of the Elizabethtown Fair Dairy Show.

The fourth generation of one of two purchased foundation calves that Steve, 19, is building his herd on, Penn Springs Milestone Ada is projected at more than 21,000 lbs. of milk in 305 days of her first lactation.

"She's the wettest two-year-old that we have in the whole herd (Penn Springs Farm)," Steve explained.

Partially accountable for her free flowing milkability is the Kauffman three-time milking schedule.

"You probably see the most difference in production in the two-year-olds," according to Steve.

"Their udders are smaller and usually are filled long before milking on a two-time basis. You're emptying them more closely to the time they fill on the three-time schedule."

The two-year-old is sure to top

AMI mushroom talk gets mixed reaction

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

KENNETT SQUARE — Two hundred mushroom growers and others vitally linked to the economically pinched mushroom industry answered an invitation by the American Mushroom Institute to attend an information meeting held at the Italian American Club here last week.

Executive Director for AMI, Jack Kooker stated the meeting was being held in cooperation with the Extension Service of Penn State. Speaker for the instructional part of the program was Paul Wuest of Penn State. Also taking part in the multi-purpose meeting were Extension agent for Chester County mushroom growers, Keith Zanzinger, AMI executive director, Kooker and promotion chairman for AMI, Joe DiNorscia.

In addition to offering the growers the opportunity to hear Wuest's presentation on wet and dry bubble, forms of fungi which can reduce or even destroy crop production, the meeting provided an opportunity to "get a pulse of the growers," as Kooker stated. A similar meeting was held the previous evening at Temple to reach the growers in that area.

During the evening's scheduled talks, it was pointed out by many growers and industry related spokesmen that due to imports the domestic growers and canners are in a financial pinch which could shortly lead to the industry's collapse.

Presently, processed mushrooms are coming into this country and being sold for prices cheaper than it costs to produce them domestically. One canner, Tom DiCecco, told the group his costs would not allow him to pay

Freak storm topples tobacco barn

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

MARIETTA — Donald Mowrer observed firsthand the destructive power of wind on Sunday evening when a strong, but shortlived, wind and rainstorm swept across his R1 Marietta farm destroying a tobacco barn.

Mowrer said, "The storm just had wind, that's all. It only lasted about three or four minutes. We didn't see it go over. It just started and quit."

Those few minutes, however, cost Mowrer not only many lost hours, but also much lost income. The barn, which measured 132 feet by 40 feet, held nine acres of tobacco, representing about half Mowrer's total tobacco crop. In the salvage operation, he estimates he lost at least half of what was stored through handling and other damage.

Three tractors were in the barn, along with other equipment and Mowrer said damage to that was "moderate."

This tobacco barn was blown over by heavy winds which swept through an area north of Marietta Sunday night. It is on the farm of Donald Mowrer and was the only major damage sustained except for some large tree limbs which were broken.

The Bottom Line

As everybody knows the bottom line represents your profit or loss, and at WALTER M. DUNLAP AND SONS we do all we can to enhance your profit or minimize your loss.

How do we do it?

The answer is in the way all livestock consignments are expertly sorted and handled whether those consignments are fat cattle, veal calves, feeder pigs or fat hogs.

The result is LESS SHRINK.

First of all, every consignment of feeder pigs, veal calves and fat hogs is weighed upon arrival. So, with LESS SHRINK, and at present prices, this means MORE DOLLARS for you the consignor.

Secondly, all fat cattle are assigned large pens and each consignment is kept separate. With large airy pens and water available the result is LESS SHRINK.

And just one more matter of importance. — There is no waiting at the docks to unload.

What does all this add up to?

The bottom line is LESS SHRINK and more dollars to you the consignor.

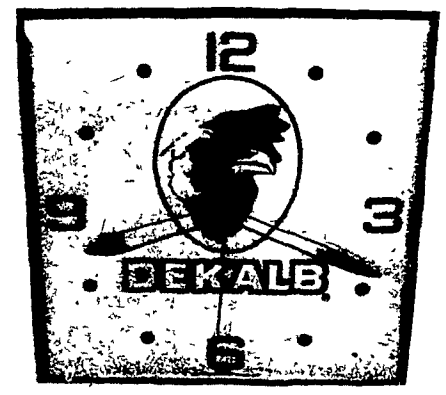
What Time Is It?



If you were planning to house your next pullets "sometime after Christmas," now's the time to firm up that order. Chicks hatching 3 weeks from now will be 28 week old layers by Eastertime. Even if time slipped by faster than you noticed and your preferred hatch date is already passed, give us a call. It's quite possible we can match you up with some pullets already started.

Anyway, isn't it time we heard from you?

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

OCT. 5-11, 1981

Dappled sky, leaves fly.

Forest fire danger now . . . Al Capone accused of tax evasion Oct. 6, 1931 . . . First quarter of the moon Oct. 6 (Tues.) . . . Average length of days for the week, 11 hours, 22 minutes . . . Georgia Tech beat Cumberland 222-0 in football Oct. 7, 1916 . . . New dinner jacket introduced at Tuxedo Club Ball, Tuxedo Park, N.Y., Oct. 10, 1886 . . . Not parties, but principles.

Ask the Old Farmer: Years ago when I was a young lad growing up in Maine, fishermen not lobstermen used to bring home giant lobsters. But I think it was illegal. I would like to know, what is the largest official recorded weight of a lobster? D.D., Boston.

A good many lobsters are taken today by fishing vessels that use otter trawls. It is not illegal to take them, probably never was unless they were egg-bearing. We have seen a lobster that weighed 37 pounds. We have heard of one that weighed 56, but we don't know what the record is.

Home Hints: Always rinse a pan in cold water before scalding milk in it for easier cleaning later on.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Week is partly cloudy and cool.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Clearing and cold throughout with rain at end.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Start is clear, cool; then cloudy and cold, showers east.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Cool, partly cloudy, then clearing; end is mostly sunny, few showers.

Off the Sounding Board

By Sheila Miller, Editor

Who needs a water bill?

Pennsylvanians, a group non-exclusive of the farm community, need a water management bill, like House Bill 1483, now.

This piece of legislation would provide for the development of a sound state water plan, with the data and background needed to insure the Commonwealth's precious resources are not depleted and that all citizens would have an equal right to their life-giving, often taken for granted, water supplies.

There are many interest groups who have gone on record opposing HB 1483, including the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. PFA testified in Allentown, this past August and again last week in Brookville, that "while provisions of the bill which call for inventory of ground and surface water resources and planning for water emergencies are good, other provisions which require permitting of large water users by the Department of Environmental Resources pose a threat to agriculture."

Last week PFA proposed that "water management legislation should be based on the availiability of water resources and the freedom of individuals to buy or sell their water-use rights in the marketplace." They called for existing users of water to have their rights secured with legal enforcement to protect those rights.

These proposals, except for the water-right auctioning part, are currently addressed in HB 1483 which calls for a continuing survey of the state's surface and underground water supplies and monitors the consumption of volume users to insure they don't drain and strain the sometimes short supply.

As far as legal enforcement of individual water rights, Pennsylvania currently has no regulatory program covering the use of groundwater supplies and only oversees withdrawals from springs, lakes and streams by public water suppliers.

In the case of a private citizen complaining that a large industry or housing complex has dried up his stream and lowered his well water level, cases are settled in the courts under common law — and liability can only arise where the withdrawal was proven to be malicious or negligent and where it caused foreseeable harm to adjacent lands. These are not very firm guidelines for private citizens, and costly court battles against Goliath enterprises are crises not relished by most.

H.B. 1483 does set up some rather stringent rules requiring permitting and record-keeping for anyone who will be using more than 10,000 gallons of water each day. This, however, is not such a great threat to the freedoms farmers and individual homeowners now take for granted.

The average dairy farm supporting 40 head of cattle and providing a home for a four-member family is estimated to use 1,500 to 2,000 gallons of water per day. To reach the 10,000 gallon limit, a farm operation would have to be five times larger — this would effect only a small percentage of farms in the state.

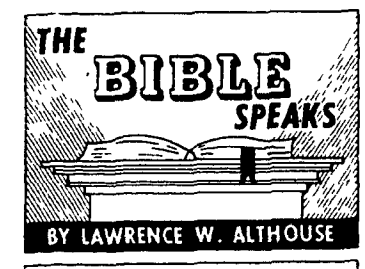
And, as pointed out by D.E.R.'s Tim Weston, the large acreage holdings of farmers would be a protective buffer — their increased water needs would not imping on close neighbors as readily as a large industrial plant, moving next-door to a housing development. Even if more farmers go to irrigation and increase their water consumption, only those farmers in "protected areas" who are using over 10,000 gallons of water per day would have to fill out a short form and apply for a permit. Currently, the two primary protected areas are the eastern Delaware River Basin around suburban Philadelphia and the Monogahela, an industrialized western Pennsylvania watershed. Neither of these two areas contribute a large portion of their land to agriculture.

This is not to say there are no short-comings with HB 1483. There are. As expressed by York County's Rep. Carville Foster and Wyoming County's Rep. Carmel Sirianni, the bill is "too cumbersome and all-encompassing." This, in part, is the result of its being drafted by a D.E.R. employee who probably is used to carrying out cumbersome and all-encompassing regulations.

The bill should address water conservation incentives, as pointed out by the State Grange and the Conservation Districts. And it should appoint more of its power to local officials rather than giving across-the-board decision-making authority to D.E.R.

Farmers in Pennsylvania stand to gain more than they'll lose if H.B. 1483 is passed out of committee and moves its way through the halls of our state capitol building. In the future, water supplies will not be jeopardized by the ever-growing migration of large industry and housing into rural areas — there will be a law to prevent that sort of thing. Without such a law, those Hollywood battles at the water hole depicted in late-night westerns could be played out here, or 'water sharks' could make a killing selling water rights on the black market.

In this over-regulated society, it's hard to swallow another law governing our lives and our farming operations. But water is too precious to ignore — a drought is always devastating. A law to equitably divide a short supply of water could only help agriculture.



NO "FREE LUNCH"

October 4, 1981

Background Scripture:
Isaiah 55
Devotional Reading:
Ezekiel 36:22-32.

The Bible asks some tough questions and none is more disturbing than the one the prophet poses to us in Isaiah 55:2—"Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread and your labor for that which does not satisfy?"

Why, indeed?

Much of our lives is spent in laboring for "that which does not "satisfy" us. We surround ourselves with things that do not satisfy us—not in the long run, that is. We spend our money on experiences that may be exciting for the moment, but do not stay with us. We spend most of our lives working...for what? We want something out of life, but do we really know what it is we want?

BUY WITHOUT PRICE!

We lose our health before we realize that health is invaluable and cannot be bought at any price. We search for happiness, but no price we pay can ever even put a downpayment on it. Actually, the price is more than we can ever afford. As Jesus said, "For what does it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses or forfeits himself?"

Yet, when we finally realize that we can never have enough to purchase what we want out of life, we are also ready to discover that it was never intended to be bought, but given: "...he who has no money, come, buy and eat! Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price" (Isaiah 55:1). It is a gift, but it is not a giveaway. It is intended to be given to all, not just a few deserving: "Ho, everyone who thirsts, come to the waters."

Actually, the emphasis is on the Giver, not the gift. That doesn't mean that the gift is not important, but that if we focus only on the gift, we will miss both it and the Giver. The key, then, is not in our "spending" our in our "labor which does not satisfy," but in the Source of what it is we are looking for: "Hearken diligently to me and eat what is good...Incline your ear, and come to me; hear that your soul may live" (5:2b,3).

WHILE HE IS NEAR

Thus, our task is not to work and strive for happiness or even to attempt to "nail down" our salvation, but to "Seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near" (55:6). Pursue God, not happiness, and happiness will be throw in. "Seek first the kingdom of God" and all the other things will be added to our lives by his grace. But it's not a "free lunch," for it costs God enormously.

It sounds as if the prophet believes that sometimes God is "near" and other times far away, sometimes to be "found," and sometimes not. That's a very human perspective, but the truth is that God is always near us, always ready to be found by us—or better to find us—but there are times in our lives when we are more aware of and responsive to the great banquet of eternal life which he wants to give us. It is particularly at those times that we need to "return to the Lord."

To Add Extra Insulation

Many people keep putting off the addition of extra insulation but as winter approaches, we need to take a real good look at energy conservation.

In many cases extra insulation in the side walls and in the ceiling areas will prevent the loss of heat in cold weather and reduce the amount of cooling needed during hot weather. Fiberglass batts, rolls or loose pour-in pieces, can be used to add to current insulation materials.

The energy problem is real, and we all need to practice conservation in all areas of our home, farm and business. The investment in insulation is a good one, and will result in a saving in both heating and cooling costs.

To Help Cows Adjust

changing weather and to indoor confinement. Feeding changes should be made gradually, and guided by a forage testing program. Bringing cows in from the pasture and confining them to concrete all day long can be a severe stress. An earthen exercise lot will do a lot for these cows.

Good stall maintenance can also increase their comfort. When cows are kept in confinement, we then have the obligation and challenge of providing proper ventilation. This is especially critical during Fall and Spring when the weather can change quite drastically and quite suddenly. Otherwise, the herd may be subjected to more respiratory diseases and health problems. It is a good idea to work closely with your veterinarian to develop a good immunization program for your herd.

To Stock Up on Some Needed Feeds

Feed is usually the single, most costly item for dairy and livestock farmers. Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, advises that if you need to purchase feed, harvest time can be a time to get your best buys - even if you have to borrow at today's high interest rates. Of course, it will take some pencil pushing to determine if advanced purchases will help you. In addition to interest costs, don't forget to include other costs such as storage, handling, processing, and the cost of spoilage.

If you are going to run short on feed, and do not have the means to make advanced purchases, your most profitable move might be to do some culling or reduce the size of your heifer herd. This would free more feed for your heifer producers - the profit makers. One thing you do not want to do is short change your good cows or your replacement heifers; that is very costly!

To Enjoys The Days of Fall

Although the Fall harvest season must rate as a busy one on farms, we need to take time and enjoy the outdoors in glorious October. This is without any doubt the most colorful of all months, reminds Arnold Lueck, County Agricultural Agent.

The lingering green of legume-grass fields, the paler green of small grains getting their start now, clearly contrast with the blazing orange, red and yellow foliage of woodlands, roadsides and fencerows.

Fall air has an invigorating effect on adults and youngsters alike. The feeling makes you want to work with vigor but with much added enjoyment. The sun still warms the back and face, matching the equally warm colors seen around us.

Plant multi-flora rose?

In your September 16, 1981 edition of Lancaster Farming, on page C4, your Beth Hemminger suggests planting multiflora rose as a farm wildlife haven.

I am shocked that an intelligent farm paper such as Lancaster Farming would suggest planting multiflora rose in a farm area. There are bills in the legislature to declare multiflora rose is a noxious weed pest.

I love wildlife and believe in soil conservation but can't stand multiflora rose from a neighbor's conservation planting. I have it under control now but it has taken many hours and money to buy Tordon 10K. I have received a lot of scratches and torn clothing.

I enjoy Lancaster Farming. My only criticism is your unthinking advocacy of multiflora rose.

Editor's Note: The wildlife conservation story about Timothy Newcomer, Newville, also included the reporter's interview with King's Gap Environmental Center's naturalist Janet Adams who recommended planting odd areas with bush honeysuckle, dogwoods, conifers, other ground covers, and yes, multiflora rose. Beth Hemminger merely quoted this individual's opinions and suggestions. Until the noxious weed bill is passed, Adams' recommendations are not against the law. Lancaster Farming has printed numerous stories and commentaries agreeing with your viewpoint, but there are two sides to everything.

Hog numbers drop

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Hogs and pigs in the 14 major producing states totaled 52.2 million on September 1.

According to USDA, that's down 5 percent from a year ago, 9 percent below 2 years ago, though 5½ percent more than the September 1, 1978 total. These 14 states normally account for 86 pct. of the national total.

The cutback came despite higher totals in Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska, the nation's Number one, Number two and Number five hog states, respectively.

Hogs kept for breeding purposes totaled 7,060,000 head, down 5 percent from a year ago, 15 percent below 2 years earlier and the lowest for the date since 1976.

Market hogs, at 45.1 million head, were down 6 percent from a year ago, 8 percent below 2 years ago and the lowest since the 41.8 million on hand Sept. 1, 1978.

In total inventory numbers, Iowa had 16,450,000, Illinois, 6,750,000, both up 2 percent; Nebraska had 3,950,000, up 1 percent from a year earlier. That's over half of the 14-state total.

The June - August pig crop in the 14 states totaled 20.2 million head. While down only 1 percent from a year ago, it was 11 percent below that of two years ago.

Despite this cutback, it appears that producers in the 14 states intend to farrow only 2,730,000 sows during September - November. That's 6 percent fewer than last year, 10 percent less than two years ago and lowest for the period since 1977 reports USDA (Hogs and Pigs).

Simmental Assoc. names trait leaders

BOZEMAN, Mt. — The American Simmental Association has announced that 75 purebred Simmental bulls, including 14 that qualified in more than one category, have been recognized as Trait Leaders for 1982.

Based on data contained in the 1982 National Simmental Sire Summary, which is currently being printed, these Trait Leaders include bulls whose progeny lead the breed in six important economic traits; calving ease, weaning weight, yearling weight, carcass value, daughters' first calf calving ease, and daughters' first calf weaning weight.

"Trait Leader recognition is based upon an evaluation of progeny performance records from 1,300 bulls listed in the 1982 Sire Summary", said Executive Vice President Earl B. Peterson. A total of 458,684 performance records from 44,003 management units were considered.

All Simmental bulls that meet qualifying progeny standards are included in the ASA Sire Summary, and are thus eligible for consideration as Genetic Trait Leaders. A bull may be named in more than one trait, provided his progeny rank in the top two percent of those recorded in the specified trait.

Eastern National opens today

TIMONIUM, Md. — More than 2,000 of the nation's prize livestock and several dozen professional rodeo stars will compete for trophies and prize money in separate showrings at the 35th Eastern National Livestock Show and Rodeo here, this week.

More than 100 livestock judging events will bring together adult and young breeders of beef cattle, hogs and sheep, as well as horses, in a competition for more than $50,000 in premiums.

There will be judging classes for eight breeds of cattle, two more than last year, according to John Wildesen, show manager. The new beef breed classes will be Limousin and Chianina. Other beef judging shows will be Angus, Hereford, Polled Hereford, Charolais, Shorthorn and Simental.

Young livestock breeders will compete with market steers, hogs and sheep in the 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America classes.

One of the highlights of the show will be the annual "Sale of Champions" on October 11 at 12:30 p.m. The top ten percent of the market steers, hogs, and lambs judged in the competition will be sold at auction to the highest bidder.

Another feature is the "Kiddie Barn," in which young children can pet live beef and dairy cattle, baby pigs, lambs, goats, ponies and other farm animals.

Invitational championship rodeo performances, featuring cowboys and cowgirls in bronc and bull riding, calf roping, steer wrestling and other events, will be held on October 9 at 7:30 p.m., October 10 at 3:00 p.m. and October 11 at 3:00 p.m.

Visitors to the livestock show will be able, for a modest fee, to try their luck at riding a mechanical bucking bull and will be treated to country western music concerts by Danny Garland and the County Express following the two evening rodeo performances.

Tickets for the rodeo performances may be ordered in advance at a cost of $5 each before October 8 and will be $7 each at the gate on the performance days. The Saturday, October 10, rodeo at 3 p.m. will have a special rate of $3.00 for children 12 years of age and under. There will be a $1 per car parking fee during the livestock show from October 7 through 11.

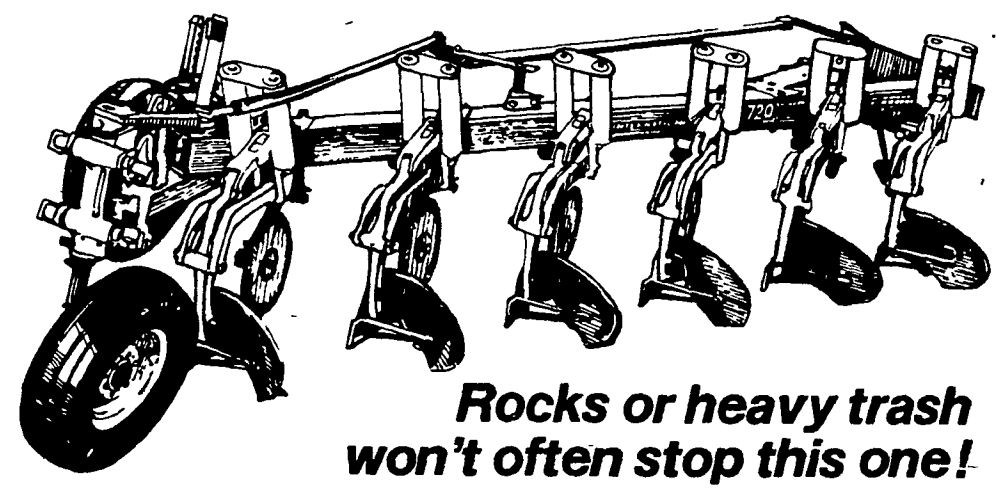
International® 720 Semi-Mounted Moldboard Plows



Rocks or heavy trash won't often stop this one!

You can't beat 'em for heavy duty nonstop plowing in your toughest fields. With exceptional vertical clearance and automatic reset trip beams, 720 plows take heavy trash and hidden obstructions in stride. Also ideal for minimum tillage and soil conservation practices because of great trash clearance and wide-slab furrows—especially with the big 20-in. size—often eliminating an extra operation of disking crop residues before plowing. Also easy to leave the kind of surfaces that resist run-off and erosion.

- Available in 4 to 8-furrow sizes with 16 or 18-in. spacing, plus extra big 20-inch model in 5/6-furrow size.
- Beams individually trip or ride over obstructions, then automatically return to plowing position. No stopping to reset.
- High 33-in. vertical clearance handles heavy trash without plugging.

Inter-State to begin 10-cent, 5-year deduction

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

BLUE BALL — The current financial woes of dairy cooperatives were brought home to members of District 6, Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative, on Tuesday night at their annual meeting in the Blue Ball Fire Hall.

Robert B. McSparran, R1, Peach Bottom, president of Inter-State outlined the co-op's new "Capital Retaining Program," through which each member will pay 10 cents per hundredweight for at least the next five years.

After explaining the purchase of the Holly plant, McSparran said the 10-cent assessment was needed to "broaden Inter-State's financial base."

McSparran also cited the plight of another co-op, NEDCO, which, he said, has just instituted a 20-cent per hundredweight retention plan for 1980 production.

"They (NEDCO) need three million dollars right now," McSparran said.

The Inter-State 10-cent assessment plan, which will continue at least five years and possibly seven, is being termed a revolving plan. It begins November 1.

In the revolving plan, members would still pay into the plan in the sixth year, but would receive the money they paid in during the first year and so on. Of course, members' production will undoubtedly be higher six years from now and payments in would exceed payments out.

"We also went to the revolving plan to keep it equal for the younger farmer starting out," McSparran explained.

McSparran also said he has made it emphatic to management that he is not in favor of any excess deductions again next spring when the surplus hits.

"We don't want to suffer losses next year like we did last year," McSparran said.

McSparran also explained how co-ops are getting together more in moving the milk around.

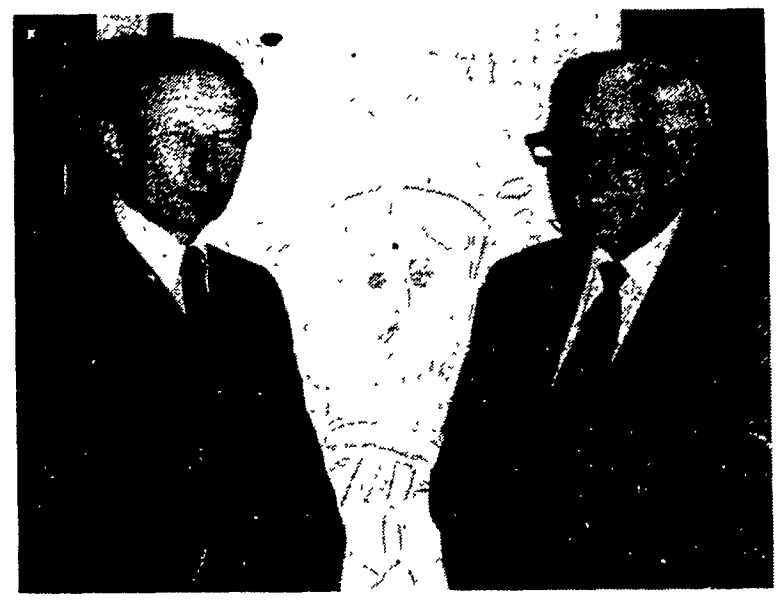
"We're shipping some 24 million lbs. a month to Lehigh at Lansdale," he said.

"But we're being cautious."

McSparran now sits on the API board and expects that IMPCO may have a second member if the affiliation continues.

McSparran also gave a lengthy explanation of the buy-out of the Holly plant from Maryland Milk Producers Cooperative, which merged with Dairymen, Inc.

He outlined some of the history of the plant and the internal talks and haggling that went on leading up to the purchase.



Speakers at annual meeting of District 6, Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative, were Roy H. Book, left; director; and Robert B. McSparran, co-op president.

Inter-State paid $4.8 million for the plant, but each partner had $1.6 million in it in preferred stock. DI will be holding this stock for one year and Inter-State will pay interest on the $1.6 million worth.

But at the end of the year, IMPCO will be obligated to pay the $1.6 million.

McSparran explained further that Holly is closed down now for repairs and corrections. Previously, it had been running about 45 million lbs. a month. It is hoped that operations can get closer to its design capacity of 2 million lbs. a day.

Also, speaking at the annual session of the Gap, New Holland-Leola and Paradise Locals, which comprise one of the biggest districts, was director Roy H. Book.

Book told the members that antibiotics and birth inhibitors were the top problems of the past year.

"Work with your vets particularly on dry cow treatment," he recommended. "And use sterile products."

Last year, 95 tank trucks and 36 members were found to have antibiotics in milk.

Some 767,000 lbs. were dumped at the farm at a cost of $52,000 to the co-op, which pays half of the value.

The three locals also held elections. A brief report was given by Young Cooperator Jere C. Skiles.

Entertainment included a film and slide program by Randy Good, of New Holland, on his more than five-year stay in Rhodesia.

YOU DON'T WALK BEHIND THIS SILAGE CART. YOU RIDE IT.

When you use a silage cart, you want it to work. In the morning. In the evening. Every day, seven days a week. But the more chains and sprockets and belts and beeters and ratchets on your silage cart, the more chance of failure when you need it.

That's why you'll want to look at the new silage cart from US Farm Systems of Pennsylvania to experience the convenience of mechanical feeding. Or when you need a second feed cart because your herd expanded.

This new silage cart uses a hydraulic system run by a Honda gas engine to power-unload and self-propel the unit. You don't walk behind this silage cart. You ride it. And you feed a row of cows or heifers as fast as you want to move. From either side.

To operate this advanced-design machine, you press down on the controls. The more you press, the faster the silage cart works. Forward and backward to deliver a steady, even flow of silage. Use the large steering wheel to turn the cart in it's own tracks. Maneuver in and out of small corners.

Because of a special unloading design that uses a circular kick wheel instead of augers and beeters, you get more positive unloading and a greater use of the cart's full-load capacity. Up to 20 percent more usable capacity over the same size box on competitive models. Available in 35, 50 and 75 bushel sizes.

So don't walk behind your silage cart any longer. Ride this new US Farm Systems silage cart. For more information and prices, write to US Farm Systems of Pennsylvania, 3053 Barren Road, Oxford, PA 19363. Or phone: (301) 398-2948.

SPECIAL NOTE: Demonstrations of manure equipment, bedding choppers and silage carts are scheduled daily on farms across Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey and New York. Call or write to US Farm Systems of Pennsylvania for times and places.

At Reading Fair

Buch's Holstein takes grand championship

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

READING — When judge Genie Francisco, Andover, N.J., selected the four-year-old senior champion Holstein shown by Keith Buch, Fleetwood as Grand Champion of the Holstein Open Show at the Reading Fair last week, she commented that it was the hardest decision she had to make all evening.

Granting the grand champ was competing against "alot of big cattle" to win those honors Francisco said she chose Ro-Ru Happy Nodia because she liked her feet and legs, her style and balance. This decision left Reserve Champion honors for a two-year-old, Y-Brookside Big Valley 114, shown by Scott Troutman, Myerstown. Francisco described this cow as having the least faults of her class and being very symetrical.

In the 4-H show, Troutman's cow was pushed up to senior and grand champion leaving reserve honors for three-year-old Russeldale B Chief Pepsi, owned by Jay Bicksler, Richland.

Buch, 23, works at home with his father, Rodger Buch, Fleetwood. They maintain a herd of about 48 cows, and have a rolling herd average of 18,000 pounds milk. Buch also won Grand Champion honors at this year's Kutztown Fair.

Scott Troutman, 16, is a junior at Conrad Weiser High School. He has been showing dairy cattle for eight years and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Troutman, Jr.

Ro-Ru Happy Nodia, a four-year-old Holstein exhibited by Keith Buch, Fleetwood, was tagged Grand Champion in last week's Reading Fair competition. She is a Harborcrest Happy Crusader daughter.

Scott Troutman, Myerstown, exhibited the Reserve Grand Champion of the Open Show and Grand Champion of the 4-H show. This winning two year old is Y-Brookside Big Valley 114, sired by Peach-View Big Valley. Looking on are the Berks County alternate dairy princess and show judge.

Jay Bicksler, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bicksler, Richland, is a sophomore at Tulpehocken High School. He too has been showing for eight years.

In the 4-H and Open junior shows, champion honors went to Connie Ohlinger, Mohrsville for her senior yearling. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Ohlinger, Connie is attending eleventh grade at Schuylkill Valley High School. She presently has 17 head of Holsteins at home, seven of which are in the milking string. The Ohlingers are milking 38 head and producing a record of 20,500 pounds milk with 720 fat.

Reserve champion junior honors went to Jonathan Grimes for 4-H and Keith Buch for the open show.

Christine Dietrich, Hamburg, took the grand championship with her three-year-old Ayrshire, Miss Lucky Star, sired by Oak Ridge Commander's Star. Chris Blatt showed his junior calf to Reserve Grand honors.

Sired by De Ayr's Hi Dropkick and named Heindel Dropkick Dawn, this heifer continued to collect honors as it was also chosen by judge Robert Kauffman as Reserve Grand Champion of the show. Christopher is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Blatt, Robesonia.

Taking Senior Champion and Grand Champion honors of the show was a three-year-old cow, Miss Lucky Star, sired by Oak Ridge Commander's Star and exhibited by thirteen-year-old Christine Dietrich. Christine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dietrich, Hamburg. She has been showing Ayrshire for five years and is an eighth grade student in the Hamburg Area School District. The Dietrich's mixed herd consists of 40 cows being Ayrshire, Jersey, and Holstein. Christine's brother, Harold Jr., shows the Jerseys.

Christine also exhibited the Reserve Senior Champion, a two-year-old named Meadow View Gallant Snowball. This young woman also had first and second intermediate calves, first dry cow 3-4 years old, and first dairy herd, produce of dam, and dam and daughter.

Rarick turns in repeat performance with champ steer

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

READING — In a repeat performance of last week's Oley Fair, 14-year-old Kenianne Rarick captured the Grand Champion Market Steer Show honors at the Reading Fair with her Three-Quarter Limousin steer, Elmer.

Originally from Oklahoma, this steer has made Kenianne a very proud 4-H'er, by winning every class it has been entered in this year. Kenianne is a ninth grade student in the Fleetwood School District and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rarick, Reading Rd.

Following suit, Reserve Grand Champion honors were awarded to the same steer that captured the title at Oley, a Charolais shown by 14-year-old Kirk Fisher, Oley. Kirk also is a ninth grade student attending the Oley Valley School District. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Fisher.

In showmanship and fitting competition, Kenianne Rarick was selected as champion showman while 19-year-old Darlene Dietrich of Hamburg was honored as champion fitter.

Darlene was chosen as the 1981 Reading Fair Outstanding 4-H Girl. She has been a 4-H member for ten years and has been active at local county and state levels. Darlene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dietrich.

Reserve champion honors went to Mike Strause, Hamburg, in showmanship and Gavin Grim, Mertztown, for fitting.

The following are the results of the beef competition:

New Holland celebrates 50th with champions

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

NEW HOLLAND — It was double delight at the New Holland Farm Show this week as the show celebrated its golden anniversary and a young showman earned Grand Champion at the Beef Show — the first time he has ever attempted such a feat.

That young showman was Ernest Mast of Morgantown who simply described himself as "very surprised" when chosen champion. Ernest's steer was a Charolais/Hereford cross, weighing in at 1215 pounds and selling to the Leola Family Restaurant for $3.39 per pound.

Reserve Champion honors and the Senior Showman title of the beef show went to Janae Martin, New Holland, a five-year veteran of both 4-H and FFA. Janae's steer was a Simmental/Angus cross weighing 1170 pounds and selling for $1.28 per pound to The Bird-In-Hand Motor Inn and Restaurant.

Sale averages for the steer show were $.96 per pound without the champion and $1.06 with the champion.

Thursday's list of excitement also included the swine show which recognized such youngsters as Jimmy Martin, 14, of New Holland who earned the Grand Champion title and Laura Folker, 9, of Pork Chop Farm in New Holland, Reserve Champion.

Jimmy's 267-pound hog sold for $3.40 to Hatfield and Laura's hog, Smokey, a Chester/Hampshire cross weighing in at 222 pounds — about three times the weight of its owner, sold for $3.05, also to Hatfield.

The new Grand Champion of the Steer Show is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Mast, owners and operators of a potato and a 100-head-beef farm. Ernest is a member of Garden Spot FFA.

Fifteen-year-old Janae Martin hails from New Holland and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Martin.

Janae reports that this year is her fifth year in FFA and 4-H — making this year "the 17th year my family has been involved in 4-H."

The Martin family's operation includes chickens, 48 head of Holsteins, and 38 steers.

Champion hog owner Jimmy Martin is the son of Mary Martin and is in his seventh year of 4-H.

Last year was another big year for Jimmy in that he was named Grand Champion also — a proud accomplishment since he reports only one pen of hogs at home.

Laura Folker, Reserve Champion hog shower, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Folker and is currently in her third year of 4-H.

Laura also earned Champion Fitter of the Swine Show.

In addition to the traditional trophy and ribbon, these four young showers will receive an 8 x 10 color picture of their champion animal.

Bob Carnathan's hog takes E-Town honors

ELIZABETHTOWN — From the varied expressions that crossed his face as he moved through the ring aside the big spotted red hog, 15-year-old Bob Carnathan Jr. clearly illustrated that he was serious about his new venture.

And that seriousness and dedication to his first feeder pig project as a Manheim Central FFA member carried the 10th grader to the grand championship of the Elizabethtown Fair swine show Wednesday night.

Only showing in competition for the second time and for the first time at a fair, Bob and his Spotted-Duroc cross topped some pretty good competition. With him in the ring when the grand champ was picked from the weight winners by judge Ezra Good, of Hatfield, were Steve Strauss, who had swept the Ephrata Fair show with his four-way crosses, and Gordon Long, who was among the major winners at the Lampeter Fair.

Bob, who comes from longtime farming stock, doesn't live on a farm now and raised his feeders with neighbor John Huber. The pigs were purchased from cousin Larry Mullen, R1 Bainbridge.

Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carnathan, R1, Columbia, both of whom were raised on area farms.

In addition to the heavyweight champion that went on to the top honors, Bob also showed the reserve middleweight.

Next week, the youthful FFA'er will move on to the Manheim Fair. He has three entries ready — another Spotted-Duroc cross and two pure reds.

Just about now as you're reading this story, Bob is probably out walking those three to get them in final tip-top shape for Manheim.

Mushroom promotion

more than 33 cents a pound for mushrooms. One grower replied from the audience, "Then why am I filling my house again? I can't grow them for that."

Until recently mushroom growers have been an independent lot, but present financial conditions for the total industry have driven the various segments of the industry together for mutual help. The American Mushroom Institute is one corporate voice which hopes to have a substantial impact on saving the domestic industry.

Kooker, its newly appointed executive director serving since January of this year, reported on a number of promotional studies and research findings which have been in the works since he took office. To outline in broader detail, the promotion arm of the AMI, its promotion committee chairman, Joe DiNorscia took the floor after Wuest's presentation.

According to the promotion chairman, one possible solution to the economic problems facing the industry is to increase consumption through an extensive promotional program and direct advertising. DiNorscia said research into costs found it would take $2 or 3 million dollars to finance such a program. Research also showed most promotion needs to be done east of the Mississippi, reported DiNorscia.

He pointed out there are seven hundred mushroom growers in the nation producing an estimated 1981 crop of 500 million pounds. Present consumption rates are 1 and ½ pound per person. The promotion goal is to increase consumption of fresh mushrooms to three pounds per person.

"West of the Mississippi the situation is better than east of the Mississippi," DiNorscia said. "West of the Mississippi they produce 150 million pounds and market 97 percent of these fresh. In the East, we produce twice that figure and sell only 35 percent fresh. The rest are processed."

Promotion chairman, DiNorscia told the group of growers that AMI is presently putting feelers out in Washington, D.C. to see if it is feasible for the federal government to establish a marketing order for the mushroom industry without a fixed ceiling of production, as is the case with all existing marketing orders. DiNorscia stressed the point that this possible marketing order would not be a "quantitative ceiling marketing order" but one which designates geographic areas for promotion and research program funding from the industry.

Studies conducted on the voluntary marketing association idea now in operation in Canada proved "mechanically infeasible," DiNorscia stated. The best shot at present, according to DiNorscia, is a federal marketing order. A variance will have to be approved to allow processed mushrooms to count in the marketing order, however, since only fresh produce is allowable under established orders.

"We are talking about an 18 to 24-month time frame here," DiNorscia added. "We have to do something in the meantime. Twenty-four months down the road could be too late.

During the question and answer session which followed DiNorscia's prepared presentation, specific details and concerns were aired. It was pointed out the proposed promotion programs need funding from a possible marketing order to a figure in excess of two million dollars which computes to a ½ cent per pound nationwide.

Although the western half of the nation's growers already market 97 per cent of their mushrooms fresh, to exclude them from the marketing order revenue would cost the eastern growers a prohibitive 2 cents a pound, DiNorscia pointed out.

He also stated the marketing order would be administered federally and not by AMI or any one industry-related body.

AMI would put a bid in on the promotion along with other agencies, he stated. Kooker, the executive director for AMI, reported that 52 percent of the growers nationwide hold membership in AMI. This represents 55 percent of the mushrooms produced domestically.

A meeting is scheduled by AMI for October 14 at the Italian American Club in Kennett Square to hear how several commodities have successfully increased consumer demand. Invited to speak at that meeting, as outlined by Kooker, are representatives from the table grape commission and iceberg lettuce commission.

Kooker said he is optimistic getting grower approval for a federal marketing order after gaining a variance to include processed mushrooms in the order. He stated he had reached four advertising firms to work up possible interim promotional programs. In one program, AMI will help promote local mushrooms being offered for sale in larger local supermarket chains. The cost for such a program is $100,000 minimum, according to Kooker.

Discussion of how to reach the individual growers to come up with funds for such an interim promotion program resulted. The president of AMI, Steve Pizzini, said he was "astounded by the number of people here.

"We need to get going right now to help solve this problem. I'd like to see this industry survive," Pizzini said. "I am a second generation grower with two sons. I pledge $1,000 to this campaign. Now we need 99 more growers to get that $100,000!"

Earlier in the evening the group of basically all growers were surprised when a local canner, Tom DiCecco, asked to have the floor. He began by saying "for a canner to come in front of so many growers was either very foolish or very brave." He went on to say that "imports have made enrodes so that domestic canners can not make costs." He said there is an oversupply because imports of processed mushrooms are taking up the market.

Then he stunned the group when he said, "I can't get too excited about promoting canned mushrooms. No amount of money will offset the Taiwan industry. You are talking about a labor force so cheap we will never match."

DiCecco said growers should concentrate on fresh promotion. "As a canner I say that." He explained that once a healthy demand for domestic fresh mushrooms is restored, growers will once again have the profit and production and demand sufficient for canners to buy their seasonal overruns and fresh market rejects at a price which would allow the canner to make a profit. DiCecco said he believes promotion of fresh mushrooms will help consumption enough to help the canner in the long run.

After AMI's president Steve Pizzini donated $1,000 to the local promotion program, DiCecco matched his donation.

AMI director, Kooker closed the meeting with the proposal that the institute would send out correspondence to those in attendance to get feedback on additional promotion funding.

Representatives from Pennsylvania Farmers Association, the National Farmers Union, the Grange, AMI, Chester County Extension, and several local and state journalists attended the meeting.

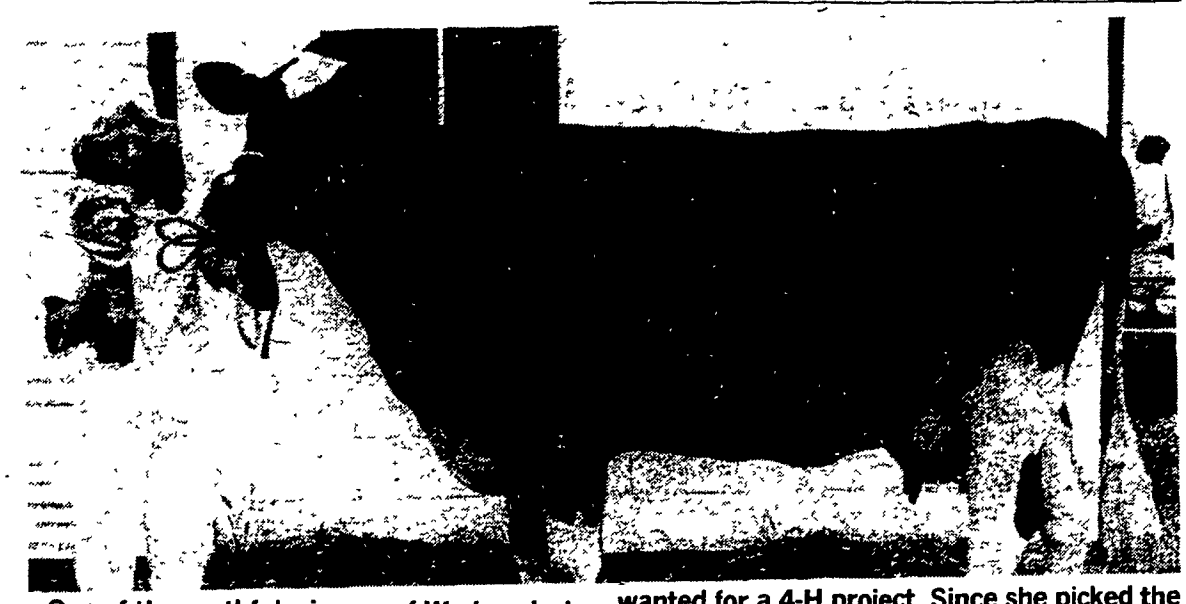
Hard work pays off, especially for these two members of the North-Mont 4-H Dairy Club. Bonny Sue Wolfe, left, displays the rosette she won for tops in showing and fitting her Guernsey, Queen. The 14-year-old junior division champion is the daughter of Paul and Doris Wolfe, Sunbury. Jean LeVan, right closed out her last year of 4-H in style by taking the senior division title in showing and fitting with her appropriately named white Holstein, Casper. Jean, 19, is the daughter of Clifford and Roxy LeVan, Milton.



One of the youthful winners of Wednesday's dairy show was Sandy Shuman, 14, of Bloomsburg. Sandy's 3-year-old cow, an Elevation daughter was chosen as reserve grand 4-H champion. Because of her hard work in assisting her family during calvings, Sandy was allowed to choose any calf she wanted for a 4-H project. Since she picked the big black Holstein 3 years ago, Shuman Burk Rag Apple Cherie has provided Sandy with two heifers — Valiant and Conductor daughters. Sandy is the daughter of Duane and Betty Shuman, Bloomsburg.

Bloomsburg Fair features record Holstein entries

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

BLOOMSBURG — Not only did this years Bloomsburg Fair, one of the largest in the state, attract thousands of people but a record number of Black and Whites also showed up Wednesday for the second day of the Fair's Dairy Show, according to livestock superintedent Fred Giger.

More than 200 Holsteins from the central and eastern sections of the state paraded in the main arena. But the one name that consistently appeared in the winners column was Globe Run Farm, Petersburg. Not suprisingly, the Premier Breeder and Exhibitor banners hung above the Globe Run tack box by the end of the day.

Globe Run Holsteins, exhibited by John Foster, Jr., racked up several individual wins and swept the majority of the group classes. However, the feather in the cap was Foster's 3-year-old cow which was named grand champion.

Globe Run Fawn Honor Litton, owned by Annabelle and John Foster, Sr., is sired by Rocby Apollo Fawn Honor and out of Globe Run Chief Marty Lady. The grand champ was first in Pennsylvania at the All-American and is projected at more than 20,000 pounds of milk.

Reserve Grand Champion honors went to Fra-Jan Farm, Orangeville. It was the first time this year that Frank Jurbala exhibited his aged cow, Lo-Pine Ivy Edith. Bred to Valiant, the reserve champ is sired by Sterk Ivy Telstar and out of Lo-Pine Nobleman Ester.

Sordoni Sterling Farm, Inc., Harvey's Lake, claimed two Champion ribbons before the day ended. Early in the competition Sterlingold Arlinda Chief, a junior yearling bull was named grand champion bull. Sired by Pawnee Farm Arlinda Chief, the champ is out of C Welcome Instigator Lisa.

The second Champion ribbon was awarded to another young animal, Sterlingold Citamatt Tillie. The senior yearling heifer, sired by Sir Glenridge Citamatt was the junior champion.

Jean LeVan's senior heifer calf, Wynding-Brook Jemini Charity, captured Reserve Junior Champion honors. The Milton 4-H'er was also selected as champion showman and fitter in the senior division.

Sandsdale Winston Tippy exhibited by Sandsdale Farms, Wyoming, was named reserve champion bull. The bull calf, owned by Ralph Sands, is sired by Edeal Pinonia Matt Tippy and out of Sunrest Sovereign Win-Twin.

Color breed exhibitors share in Bloomsburg Fair honors

BLOOMSBURG — What do Sam Diehl, Mildred Seeds, David Feidt and Terlin Farms have in common?

All four virtually swept their breed competition during the color breed show at the annual Bloomsburg Fair, Tuesday.

His Cove Creek Farm Ayrshires

(Turn to Page A30)

her previous three generations, likely next year already as a three-year-old. Among her female predecessors, the dam and grand dam are milking about 22,000. She's out of Penn Springs Elevation Alfie, sired by Poverty Hollow Milestone.

Already her first-calf, the fifth generation of the family that Steve has reared, is down in Kentucky, sold off the Penn Springs Farm in June.

The two-year-old grand champ has been quite busy with her owner the past few months. She took two reserve championships, at the Southeast Championship at Carlisle and at the 4-H Roundup in July. At District 4-H in Harrisburg, she took a class first.

Steve, who was just named the Eastern States Exposition Star Farmer in regional FFA competition at West Springfield, Mass., is gradually building his herd from the two original calves purchased from John Umble, Chester County. He has about a dozen milkers and 10 heifers.

And as wet as the big Kauffman heifer was, it was just as wet outside at the fair.

Judging was delayed after the first two calf classes as the whipping, driving rain drummed incessantly on the large circus-type tent. The pelting din of the rain even drowned out judge Jane Pepple's attempts at announcing the class winners over the PA system.

It was a quick dash for the youthful exhibitors and their animals as they ran through the rain from the stabling tent to the show tent.

But the heavy storm paid tribute to the ability of the Elizabethtown FFA members in erecting tents and their industriousness in quickly spreading sawdust to soak up the massive puddles that developed both outside and inside the tents.

The dairy show also included Ayrshire competition among E-Town FFA'ers through the cooperation of the Masonic Homes. Animals from the Masonic registered herds were selected and cared for by some chapter members and then showed at the fair.

"Family farming constitutes, really, a culture. People whose farms are on the outskirts of a growing town, who want to farm, and for whom farming is the tie to their ancestors and children, have to deal with a strange, disruptive problem. Can a stable, hale way of life that is the basis for health and order in community and government, be exchanged for money?

". . . One time, up there, I saw them strip-plowing about a forty-acre field. There must have been two hundred teams plowing that field, one behind another—all colors, all sizes, horses and mules, their skirts just a-waving along with the motion of the double-tree, as if they were floating on the water. I can get goose-pimples on me from just sitting there thinking about it."

". . . I feel a bond between us and a dependence on each other, and I know I have a horse I can be proud of."

The Sampson bull also sired the Reserve Junior Champion, Cove Creek S Cathy, also a senior yearling.

Diehl's junior yearling bull, Cove Creek Madges Boy captured the Grand Champion Bull title, followed bull calf Cove Creek Starboy, the Reserve Champion.

It was easy to spot Mildred Seeds' Top-O-Hill show string—not because of the many ribbons and plaques overhead but by shiny, curved horns on the heads.

The Downingtown woman is one of the few Jersey breeders who maintains horns on her entire herd.

"Horns make a Jersey head," she said. "I don't like a Jersey without them."

Seeds exhibited the grand and reserve champion and the junior champion.

(Turn to Page A32)

Top-O-Hill Special St. Patty chalks up another win for Mildred Seed's scrapbook. The reserve grand champion, an aged cow, is due in April to Samson.

Although many top cows drew attention while in the show ring, this reserve grand champion Guernsey, owned by Wayne Mummey, collected quite a crowd outside the ring. Piney Lane Princess Pringle delivered a healthy bull calf in front of more than 50 fair-goers, Wednesday.

This pig reached 221 lbs. in just 150 days on the Agway swine feeding program. And that's not unusual.

It's no secret that feed is the single biggest cost in producing pork. That's why it pays to make sure your feeding program gets your pigs to market weight in the shortest possible time.

From Agway Squealer Pellets to Agway Pork Finisher, there's a farm-tested Agway feed nutritionally formulated for each stage of a pig's growth. Agway complete swine feeds provide all known nutritional needs, including energy, protein (amino acids), minerals and vitamins.

COMPLETE AGWAY SWINE FEEDS	% Protein	% Fat	% Fiber

Pig Starter Pellets (PT-MX)	18	3.5	4 5

Pork Finisher (T-20) 4	12	3 5	5 0

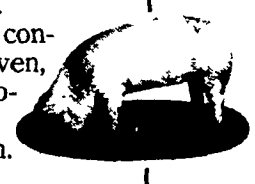
The farm-tested Agway swine feed program can help make each of your pigs an "ideal pig"

And Agway also supplies a complete line of medicated feeds and supplements.

BACKED BY FEED TRIALS ON 1800 PIGS ANNUALLY.

Agway, in conjunction with other cooperatives, runs feed trials on 1800 pigs annually at the Agway Swine Research Farm in Lexington, Ill.

New feed ideas are constantly tested and proven, and the results incorporated into the Agway swine feeding program.



The ideal hog, as defined by the American Pork Congress, attains a weight of 220 lbs in 150 to 165 days It requires no more than 3 lbs. of feed per each pound of gain, and delivers a loin 30 inches long with a loin eye of 5 square inches

In the past, Agway Squealer Pellets and Agway Starter Pellets were developed as the direct result of this program.

YOUR AGWAY SWINE EXPERT CAN TELL YOU MORE.

The Mausers' 4-year-old entry was named grand champion. Sired by Clovelly Top Hornet, the champ, Terlin Jewel is in calf to Lone H Palm Jupiter.

The champ's paternal half-sister, Terlin Top Hornet Ember, a senior yearling, was named junior champ. The Mausers also captured Reserve Junior Champ honors with a senior calf, Terlin Brutus Joy, sired by West Maltas Deacons Brutus.

To complete their Champion rosette collection, the Mausers took Grand Champion Bull honors with their bull calf, Terlin Premier Rocky.

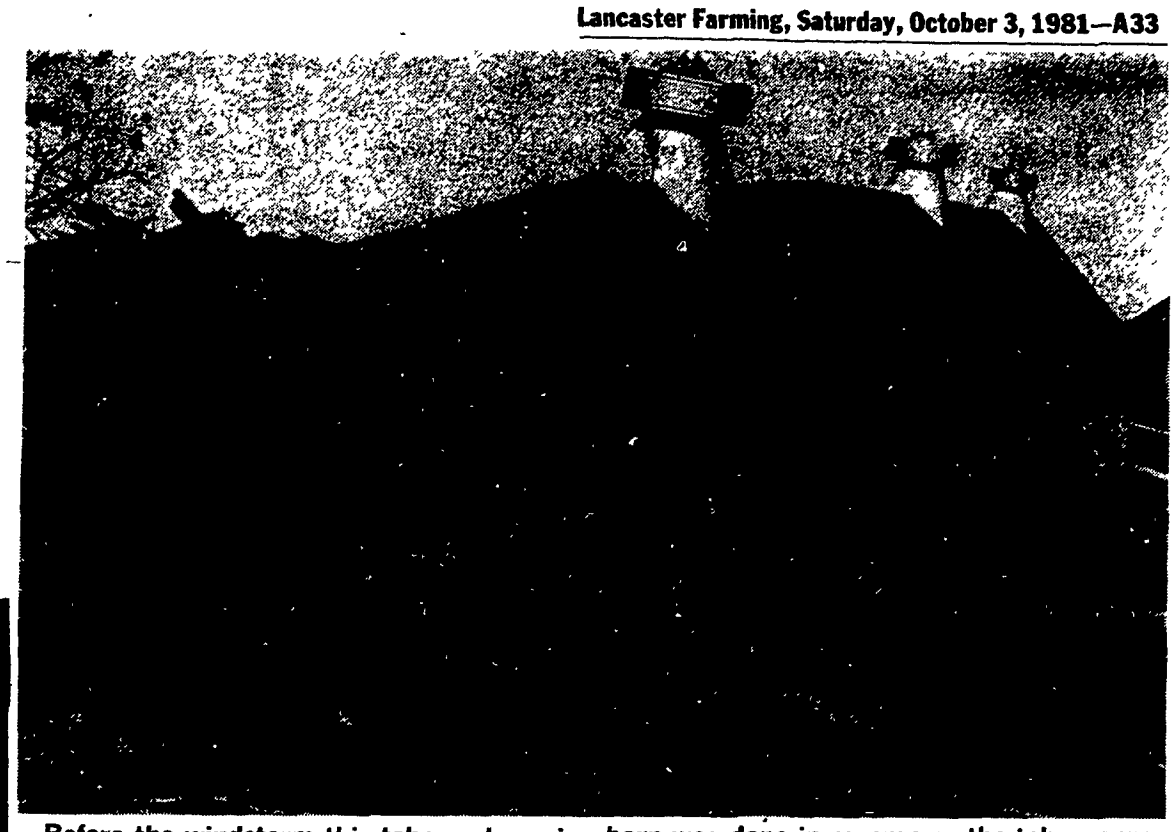
The happy part of this story is that, true to their Lancaster County heritage, friends and neighbors showed up throughout the day Monday to help clean up the collapsed barn and carry out the tobacco. Many of the helpers were members of the Elizabethtown Young Farmers of which Mowrer is a member. Mowrer said they kept a record of those who came to help and at the end of the day over 78 names were listed. Nearly a dozen women came to help serve food to the hungry crew at mealtime.

Despite a stiff wind, by the end of Monday all the tobacco had been re-hung on wagons to be moved to a neighboring farm where Mowrer rented a barn. He said, "I was pleased and amazed. I didn't think it could be done in one day. It went well."

The tobacco barn will be rebuilt, but in the meantime, Mowrer was grateful to all those who set about the depressing task of undoing many weeks of labor.



Before the windstorm this tobacco hung in even rows in the tobacco shed. Now it is a twisted mess, and all the work of filling the barn was done in reverse as the tobacco was carried out to be stored elsewhere.

Elevation daughter tops Franklin, Cumberland Holstein Sale

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Coorespondent

Fifty-six Holsteins paraded across the sale ring Tuesday evening to bring in a grand total of $77,730.00 at the annual Franklin and Cumberland County Holstein Breeder Sale held at the Shippensburg Fair Grounds.

As the first gavel sounded, the sale tent quickly filled to capacity with plenty of anxious bidders from surrounding counties. Auctioneer, Ralph Horst, kept a fast pace as the bids came nodding in.

As Lot No. 13 entered the sale ring several bidders began vieing for title to this top cow, but John Stamy, III of Mechanicsburg, bought Amtrim-Spring Elevation Nancy for $3,200, the top seller of the sale. The 3-year-old cow was consigned by Harold Crider, Chambersburg.

Nancy's latest record included 11,924 pounds milk with 517 pounds fat, 4.30 percent test and a Good Plus - 82. The top seller is by Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation out of Piney-Mar Design Nora.

The second highest seller was Becks-Hill-View Tidy Fannie consigned by Jack Beck of Mercersburg and bought by Dwaine Breckbill, Chambersburg, for $2,950. Fannie is out of Lawcrest Marvex-Twin and Becks-Hill View Ida Fannie. She has an outstanding record for a 2-year-old with 14,965 pounds of milk and 455 pounds of fat and 3.00 percent test.

Another daughter of Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation, Wit-Lane Elevation Tabby was a high seller in the sale. F. Glenn and Allen Peffer, Carlisle, bought Tabby for $2,500, making her the third-high seller. This 2-year-old made 11,279 pounds of milk with 474 lbs. fat and 4.20 percent test.

The sale averaged $1,388 which included cows and calves.

Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Calf Club kept all the hearty appetities filled with a food stand of homebaked pies, cakes, soup and sandwiches.

The new owners of Antrim-Spring Elevation Nancy is John Stamy, III and son of Mechanicsburg. Nancy was the top seller of the Franklin and Cumberland Holstein Breeders Sale selling for $3,200.

Farming's Futures

By David K. Sauder
Commodity Advisor
Trade Tech, Lancaster

Since no price protection is available to farmers anywhere except through hedging, the futures market has become essential for survival.

The major complaint of farmers has been that whenever someone has tried to explain the futures market, everyone has become more confused rather than informed.

Is a Futures Price a "Forecast"?

It can certainly be considered a forecast in that it reflects what buyers and sellers expect the price to be in a given future month on the basis of currently-available information. (It stands to reason that if they expected higher prices, they would buy, thereby driving prices up. And if they expected lower prices, they would sell, thereby driving prices down.) Futures prices can thus provide a valuable tool for farmers and others in making advance plans concerning production, storage and marketing.

Bear in mind, though, that futures prices are subject to rapid change as new supply-demand information becomes available, or as there are changes in the way information is interpreted. An improvement in the outlook for exports, for example, could lead to futures prices being revised upward. Or a slackening in demand could lead to lower futures prices.

Moreover, a futures price can be affected by the way buyers and sellers react to it. For example, if futures prices were particularly high or low, producers might react by increasing or decreasing production, thereby changing the price outlook. All of this notwithstanding, futures prices are a useful guide to forward planning.

Why Are There Different Futures Prices For Different Delivery Months?

The principal reason is the cost of storing grain from one month to another. Grain is generally harvested within a span of a few weeks to a few months each year but only a small portion of it is actually needed at the time of harvest. The rest of it must be stored until needed for feeding, processing, exporting or whatever.

The expenses of storage — known as "carrying charges" — are normally reflected in futures prices for different delivery months. They include not only the cost of the physical facilities in which grain is stored but also such costs as quality deterioration, insurance and interest on the invested capital.

Buyers are willing to pay a higher price for futures contracts calling for later-in-the-year delivery because it enables them to establish a firm price for an assured supply without having to store the actual commodity. Consequently, futures prices for delivery within the same marketing year are normally stair-stepped upward from one delivery month to the next.

As a practical matter, however, futures prices for the different delivery months don't always reflect a full carrying charge. The price difference is seldom ever more than the full carrying charge, at least for any long period of time, because commodity traders are quick to capitalize on any carrying charge that is greater than the actual costs of storage. On the other hand, month-to-month differences between successive futures contracts can be — and frequently are — less than a full carrying charge.

This can occur for a variety of possible reasons: The willingness of elevator owners to store grain for their own accounts at less than the full published storage rate; the actions of traders who can speculate that a full carrying charge will narrow with very little risk of loss; or a particularly strong market demand for grain for immediate delivery.

Send questions on futures trading to Farming's Futures, Lancaster Farming Newspaper, Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543.

WATER WAR RAGES

Re: House bill #1483
Printer's #1723

Fellow Pennsylvanians:

House bill 1483 is a dangerous infringement on the FREEDOM AND PROPERTY RIGHTS of all citizens of the Commonwealth. You should request a free copy from your representative.

HB 1483 provides for another TAX on your right to drink water from your own well or spring. Page 40 line 10.

HB 1483 confiscates your rights to all water on your own land. The bill says:

The water resources of this Commonwealth are public natural resources held in trust by the Commonwealth for the benefit of all the people. Page 7 line 18

Fellow American, that is right out of the Communist manifesto. That is the doctrine of HITLER-MARX-CASTRO-MAO...IT IS NOT PART OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS or of THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION.

It is not the doctrine of WASHINGTON, JEFFERSON or WILLIAM PENN.

While you read this sentence someone is dying trying to escape the tyranny proposed for all Pennsylvanians by HB 1483.

HB 1483 provides the right of EMINENT DOMAIN for not only a bureaucracy of the Commonwealth but for certain public utilities-the right to CONFISCATE the water from your well, even after you paid for a permit. Page 36 Line 1-17

HB 1483 provides, "duly authorized agents...are authorized at all reasonable times to enter and examine any property," "The owner shall give the agents...free and unrestricted entry and access." Page 42 lines 21-30. "Upon refusal to grant entry or access, the agent or employee may obtain a search warrant..." Page 43 lines 1-3.

How does a search warrant work? State police gave the following account:

Sunday at 10:30 a.m., members of the Troop obtained a search warrant to search the residence.

At 11 a.m. the warrant was served by 15 troopers aided by Twp. Police Chief.

HB 1483 provides for the interconnection of YOUR well with others, Page 27 line 29.

I am not suggesting that those members of the House who introduced HB 1483 are communists or communist agents. I am suggesting that they have not read the bill. I am suggesting that every member of the House examine the bill and the effects it will have on the FREEDOM of ALL PENNSYLVANIANS.

The bill was introduced by: Bittle, Kowalyshyn, Geist, Lashinger, ~~Noye~~, Burd, Gannon, Cessar, Cole, Cappabianca, Wass, Michlovic, Steighner, Stewart, Letterman, Greenwood, Itkin, Kanuck, McCall, J.L. Wright, Snyder, Gruppo, Siemenski, Arty, Gladeck, Davies, ~~Manmiller~~, Boyes, Reber, Nahill, Swift, Burns, Belfanti, Rybak, W.W. Foster, Zwikl, Heiser, Moehlmann, ~~Sirianni~~, Saurman, Cornell and Hagarty on June 2, 1981.

Rep. Bittle said, "Watson doesn't understand the bill."

Rep. Manmiller said, "Once other legislators realize the full implications of the proposed bill, I'm sure many of them will be withdrawing their names as sponsors."

Rep. Sirianni said, "My name was removed from HB 1483. As far as I am concerned, their (DER) regulations in the past have proven to be without common sense and I would not trust them to do a better job now."

Rep. Noye, Majority Caucus Chairman said, "I have notified the Majority Leader to remove my name as a sponsor of HB 1483. After reviewing this bill, I have found that it is not in the best interests to the people of the Commonwealth."

Rep. Samuel E. Hayes, Jr., Majority Leader, in a note to Rep. Sirianni said, "This is a bad bill. People would not have control over their own water. Good idea to have your name removed."

Sobering thoughts for all Pennsylvanians.

NO ONE CAN SUPPORT THE CONSTITUTION AND THIS LEGISLATION.

You are the most important soldier in this war. You MUST write your Representative, ask for a free copy of HB 1483, give him your opinion and ask for his.

This battle is just beginning-gird up your loins.

Sincerely,

Andrew J. Watson

Champion showman shows champion lamb

Valerie Ernst of Sinking Springs exhibited the Reading Fair champion market lamb, while James Heffner, Fleetwood, had the reserve champion entry. Judging the show was Robert Herr, Lancaster.

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

READING — Fifteen-year-old Valerie Ernst, R6 Sinking Springs, captured the spotlight in the market lamb and showmanship classes at the Reading Fair last week by taking champion honors in both shows.

Val is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ernst and is presently attending tenth grade in the Wilson School District. She has been showing sheep for seven years in 4-H. The Ernst family has about 20 Suffolks.

Champion sheep fitter was awarded to fourteen-year-old Joshua Grim, Breinigsville. Joshua is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Grim and a student in the Parkland School District, Lehigh County. This young man has shown in 4-H for the past six years.

James Heffner, Fleetwood, showed the reserve champion and also was named reserve champion fitter. Jim's sister, Elaine Heffner, was named reserve champion showman. The following are the sheep show results:

USDA extends maturity date on 1980 corn, sorghum loans

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block announced recently that 1980-crop corn and sorghum loans maturing in September or October can be extended for two months at the option of the producer. Terms and conditions of the original loan will remain in effect.

Loans maturing on September 30 will be extended to November 30, and loans maturing October 31 will be extended to December 31, if requested by the producer.

At the option of the producer the extension is also available for 1980-crop corn and sorghum loans with an original maturity date of August 31, that were previously extended to September 30. These loans will now be extended to November 30, if the producer requests an extension.

Block said this action will provide producers an opportunity to delay the decision to repay or forfeit their loans until after harvest of the 1981 crop. The prospect of a record corn crop has depressed the current market price.

Block said the action is also consistent with the USDA's move towards a more market-oriented farm policy.

Producers should contact their county ASCS office for further information on extending their loans.

Two reap benefits 4-H offers

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

Gretchen Doner and Hal Enders are pioneering new territory as they undertake activities as the first-ever Outstanding 4-H Girl and Boy in Lancaster County. Gretchen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Doner, New Providence, R 2, and Hal is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Enders, Sr. 3203 Horizon Drive, Mountville.

The two 4-H'ers were selected to represent Lancaster County 4-H at the annual Achievement Day in August and are now beginning to make appearances to boost 4-H. The Outstanding Boy and Girl contest was initiated this year to replace the 4-H Junior and Senior Queen contest that had been a part of Achievement Day for many years.

Gretchen, 17, Hal, 17, share an enthusiasm for their new role and an ability to express themselves about 4-H's virtues.

Although she served for one year as the Junior 4-H Queen, Gretchen approved the move to a Boy and Girl contest. She states, "I thought it was a good idea to change. The guys should have as much of a chance to be recognized. It is a title which can be used to promote 4-H."

Hal responds, "I liked the queens, and the guys did get involved as escorts. But this is more fair and equitable for both. I was pretty happy when I won. Although I was really tired that night from helping to set up for Achievement Day, I mostly felt rejunevated when I won and was ready to go."

Both these teenagers make it clear that they consider 4-H a very valuable part of their total experience. Gretchen expresses her reasons for liking 4-H this way, "There are all kinds of ways to develop yourself and to gain confidence. And all the kids are just super.

"I learned so much I know I would not have my horse now if it were not for 4-H. It keeps me riding. But no matter what your interest, you gain so much. It gives you a good feeling."

Hal adds, "People is what makes 4-H. I have gained a lot and made a lot of friends. You see people from different events over and over again.

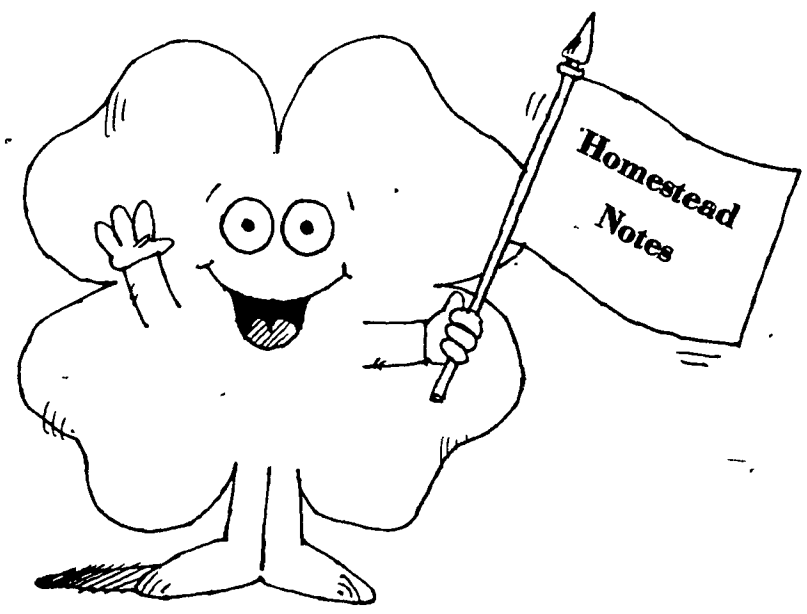
"I think 4-H is meeting a lot of needs. It gives you acceptance and is a way of getting a pat on the back when you do well. It offers friendship and allows you to be a part of something. You can achieve something not related to school, and you learn about other people."

On a personal basis Hal feels 4-H has enriched him tremendously. "I have learned to take responsibility and to channel it and challenge others to get a job done. I have gained self-confidence and learned how to conduct myself in front of a large audience. It has made me a better person and has made me a better influence on others."

As part of the contest, each participant had to present a radio commercial before the audience. Gretchen did a take off on the 4-H's, head, heart, hands and health, substituting her own words. She said to her, the 4-H's mean home, hard work, help and happiness, explaining, "No matter where you go you find lots of friends and 4-H is like one big family. Hard work pays off with a ribbon or the satisfaction of learning. Help comes from leaders willing to give a helping hand and you can return the favor by helping younger members. Happiness in 4-H comes from making friends, gaining knowledge and seeing 4-H'ers grow as individuals.

For Hal's commercial he spoke as Chris Clover, a character he often assumed when he wore the plywood frame of Chris at many area parades and events over the summer. As Chris Clover, he offered his listening audience and "irrestible offer," saying, "For a small part of your time, your enthusiasm, and your fun and learning spirit you can belong to 4-H", He told young people, ages 8-18, to join 4-H as a member, and encouraged those over 18 to become involved as a leader of one of the 100 projects available to 4-H members.

Hal Enders, Lancaster County's Outstanding 4-H Boy, models the latest in backpacking equipment, necessary for a hike through the wilds. Backpacking has become one of Hal's favorite 4-H projects.



Gretchen has been a member of the 4-H Rough Riders for five years and has served as vice-president, president and secretary. She participated in Capitol Days in Harrisburg and in Leadership Congress at Penn State as well as serving as recreation leader for county 4-H day camp.

She has been a member of the 4-H horse judging team for two years, an experience which she consides very valuable in helping her learn to speak well and in improving her memory. "You have to be able to defend what you said. That's quite a task and I've really learned about horses."

Gretchen feels that being in 4-H has helped her improve her riding, something she tries to do daily. About horse shows she says. "Winning is not everything. I just like to place well. I'm very happy with the horse I've got."

A member of the Mountville Community Club for eight years, Hal has had a variety of projects including dogs, gardening, pet care, bicycle, electric and gasoline engines, woodworking, leathercraft, wildlife, chef's league and backpacking.

He has also served as teen leader in dogs, gasoline engines, wildlife and pet care.

He has been vice-president, president and co-game leader in his club. He has participated in county and regional demonstrations, county day camp, regional teen leader retreat, served as senior counselor at 4-H camp at Camp Nawakwa, and attended a regional dog leader training workshop. He has also attended 4-H Capitol Days, Leadership Congress at Penn State and the Citizenship Washington Focus in our nation's capital. In addition, he has spoken on local television twice and represented 4-H at the local bankers' banquet.

Hal is enthusiastic about most of the projects he has had, saying, "4-H is full of surprises." Backpacking is one of his current favorites. He says, "It is a totally different dimension, and you see people in a new light when you go backpacking together."

Gretchen can remember that she joined 4-H specifically to gain information about the horse she owned. She is an eager teen leader, saying that she enjoys watching the young members learn and grow.

Hal talks about why he enrolled in 4-H. "I was lucky. My mom was organizational leader and she wanted more guys in the club and wanted to get projects which were interesting to guys. At first I was just going along and doing projects, but in the last few years I've had my own reasons for belonging. I feel teen leadership is very rewarding. I know how it feels to learn how to do something, and now I find kids who can finish a project in one week instead of being able to do nothing."

Both Gretchen and Hal have found time in their busy schedules to work with the 4-H therapeutic riding program. Gretchen says, "It was a neat experience to work with those kids. It gives you a tremendous feeling to watch their progress."

Hal also likes working with the handicapped riders and adds, "I'd like to see everybody be more responsible to people who are not so healthy."

While these outstanding 4-H'ers feel that 4-H is a terrific program, they can also see some room for improvement. Hal says, "I think one shortcoming of 4-H is that we don't keep the older youth, and it is then that they can see the value of it. Once they are out, they lose contact."

He also wants to see more community involvement in 4-H. "They know about 4-H, but we don't make them appreciate us very much. We could be more involved in community pride and help with community spirit. Spirit is something we've got lots of."

While in Washington, Hal became interested in conservation and said he would like to see 4-H more involved in picking up trash and recycling, perhaps as a fund raiser.

Gretchen agrees that there is a need to keep the interest of young people through high school, and agrees that it takes a lot of motivation and support from home to maintain that interest. She said she frequently comes home from hockey practice, shoves down her supper and goes off to a meeting.

(Turn to Page B4)

Shades of Dixie gets some playful attention from Gretchen Doner, Lancaster County's Outstanding 4-H Girl. Gretchen jointed 4-H to learn more about the care of her horse, and had a whole new world of activities opened to her.

Homestead Notes

She adds, "I think we should definitely advertise more about all the different projects that are available. It's not just animals and cooking. We should advertise all the really different projects."

She says she would also like to find some way to get more kids involved in County Council activities, perhaps by working harder on car pooling, since getting there can be a big problem in a county as large as Lancaster County.

One of Gretchen's goals as the outstanding 4-H girl would be to explain to those not familiar with 4-H all the different projects, the different clubs and the opportunities available to 4-H members.

High School activities also mean a lot to Hal and Gretchen. A senior at Lampeter Strasburg High School, Gretchen plays the baritone horn in the band and also serves as student director. She participates in chorus, is a peer counselor, plays hockey, participates in the drama club, student council and National Honor Society. She hopes to attend a four-year college and study business administration. This summer she attended the Rotary Leadership Conference at Dickinson College.

Hal is also a band member at Hempfield High School where he is a senior. He is a percussion leader which means he helps distribute music and keeps a close eye on the equipment. He also works with individuals who may be having trouble with the music, giving suggestions and helping to build their self-confidence. He is a member of the Bible club, the concert band and the orchestra.

Hal would like to attend Penn State and study criminology.

Also named to the new 4-H Honor Roll, Hal said, "I think the honor roll is a good idea and a good way to get everybody involved. It makes the point that here's a group of people who have done a lot."

Having experienced the success of 4-H, Gretchen would like to see more young people become members, but she adds, "I would encourage adults or parents to become leaders. They get a lot of support from the Extension office. You have to be versatile and there are some hassles, but it is worthwhile."

One of the first duties as Outstanding 4-H Boy and Girl has been to ride in the local fair parades, a total of seven in the next few weeks. While it's a little overwhelming, Gretchen says, "I love meeting people so it should be fun." She acknowledges that they'll be doing a lot of waving as they ride in their convertibles.

When they were selected as Outstanding Boy and Girl it was a recognition of their past achievements, but for Hal and Gretchen the award also brings a year of challenge and opportunity. Hal sums up their feelings about their responsibility to the title when he says, "Now I feel I can do something and make people see 4-H."

York conservation tour is Oct. 8

YORK — On Thursday, October 8, buses will be departing for an all-day agriculture tour of some of the latest and best in York County.

The tour has been jointly planned by the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, Penn State Extension Office, Soil Conservation Service, Bureau of Foresty and the York County Conservation District.

Morning stops will include the Charles A. Hess Farm which is a family century farm and has been in the Hess Family since 1872. Conservation measures applied to this farmland include diversion terraces and an animal waste facility.

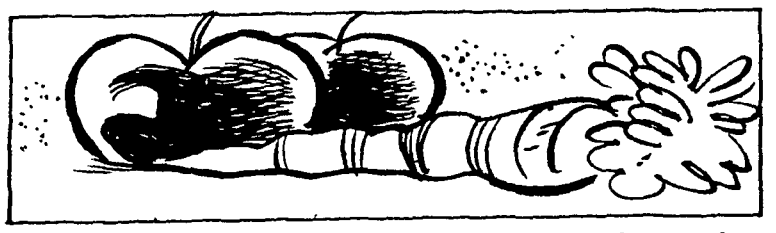
Next stop is the Jack L. Myers farm which is also a family century farm and has been in the Myers family for over 100 years. Myers was named "Outstanding Cooperator of the Year" in York County for 1981 for conservation efforts. Conservation measures applied include diversion terraces, tile drainage and grassed waterways. The last scheduled morning stop will be at the George W. Dutrey farm where the Dutrey's have 130 Dorset breeding ewes. They hope to have some Fall lambs to show the tour group. Mrs. Dutrey is the Secretary/Treasurer to the York County Sheep Growers and Wool Producers Association.

After a homemade luncheon served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Jacobus Fire company, tour participants will view the York County Solid Waste and Refuse Authority and land being used before and after a landfill operation.

Next stop is a sawmill operation owned by Robert Dubel which has been in business for several years where logs are turned into boards.

The last tour stop will be Naylor Wine Cellars, owned and operated by Richard and Audrey Naylor. The group will tour the vineyard and the winery, climaxed by wine tasting.

The tour is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at approximately 3:30 p.m. All reservations for the day must be submitted to the ASCS office at 120 Pleasant Acres Road, York, Pa., 17402 or by telephoning the office at 717/755-2801 for reservations. Cost of the tour is $9.



Apples and carrots should not be stored together. The carrots are likely to develop a bitter taste.

Estate planning series set

MEDIA — A series of three meetings on Estate Planning is being offered by the Delaware Co. Cooperative Extension Service, says Greta C. Vairo, Extension Home Economist.

They will be held at the Del. Co. Campus of Penn State at 25 Yearsley Mill Rd., Lima, on Wednesday evenings, October 14, 21 and November 4 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The campus is located north of the Granite Run Mall on Route 352.

To register send a check for $5 ($8 per couples) made payable to D.C.E.S. to Greta C. Vairo, Penn State Extension Service, Rose Tree Park, 1521 N. Providence Road, Media, Pa. 19603. Include your name, address and phone number.

Even though you may not own a huge estate of several hundred acres and a mansion, chances are, you own much more than you realize. Do you own real estate, stocks, bonds, business assets, or insurance? Do you have children? Do you own a business? Do you have a retirement program or pension plan? If you answer yes to any of these questions, then you need estate planning.

Values of assets have increased markedly during the past 20 years, especially real estate. Many individuals own more than they realize, and may be unaware that they have a problem. Families with young children may have a serious problem in the care of children in case of the death of parents.

How does a family determine whether they have estate problems? First it is necessary to determine the objectives of the family. What kind of financial security is needed for your retirement years? What security is needed for a surviving spouse? Do you wish to minimize estate taxes at the time of death? Do you have minor or handicapped children who need a guardianship if both parents die?

Do you have a business that you want to remain in the family? Are there family heirlooms you want certain children to receive? Is there reason to leave more to one child than another? Do you want to prvent your children from fighting over your estate when you are gone? Do you have the cash liquidity to meet estate costs and taxes? Are you willing to have the state inheritance law determine your estate distribution? Although it may not be a pleasant chore, it is to your advantage to make rational decisions now about the disposal of your assets.

Everybody say "cheese"

The first photographer who told his participants to say "cheese" knew what he was doing. Not only does cheese put a smile on your face by saying it, but notice the smile that results from eating it!

Cheese seemed to be another favorite of all our cooks, so read on, try a few and enjoy delicious cheese...

CORN QUICHE

pastry for 9-inch crust
1 chopped onion
1 chopped green pepper
1 1/2 c. fresh cooked corn
1/2 lb. swiss cheese, grated
1 1/2 c heavy cream
5 eggs
salt and pepper
1/4 c. crumbled cooked bacon

Line pie plate with pastry. Saute onion and green pepper in bit of butter till soft. Mix corn and cheese with onion and green pepper. Spoon into pie shell. Beat eggs, cream and seasonings. Pour into corn and cheese mix in the shell. Bake 350 degrees for 50 minutes.

Beth Mearkle, Royersford

LASAGNA BOLOGNESE

1/2 c. grated parmesan cheese
1 1/2 lb. ground beef
1 onion diced
1 - 8 oz. can mushrooms, drained
1 - 15 oz. can tomato sauce
salt and pepper
1/2 c. margarine
1/2 c. flour
4 c. milk
8 oz. lasagna noodles

In skillet over medium heat in small amount of oil, cook ground beef and onion until beef is browned. Stir in mushrooms, tomato sauce, salt and pepper. Reduce heat and simmer 15 minutes. Remove from heat and set aside and prepare parmesan sauce. In a 3-quart saucepan over low heat, melt margarine. Stir in flour, salt, and pepper until well blended. Gradually stir in milk and parmesan cheese and cook, stirring until thickened. Remove from heat and set aside.

Prepare noodles as directed on package; drain. In 13x9 inch baking dish, evenly spread 1/4 of the parmesan sauce; arrange about 1/3 of noodles; top with 1/3 of meat sauce. Repeat layering, ending with cheese sauce. Bake in 375 degree oven for 30 minutes.

How do you spell lifestyle? C-H-E-E-S-E!

LANCASTER — Not literally, but with a slice of poetic license, lifestyle does spell cheese. Why, you say? Let's count the ways.

There are so many ways you can eat cheese, serve cheese, use cheese and store cheese, you get confused whether lifestyle is one word or two. But, know for certain that cheese melts beautifully into today's frenetic lifestyle.

You can eat it with your fingers or a fork. It can be an ingredient or a topping. And cheese can be served as a soup, or with nuts. In fact, is an appetizer, a main course or a dessert depending upon your taste.

That's why lifestyle spells c—h—e—e—s—e. For cheese is lively food and it certainly has style. Estimates of varieties of cheese range from hundreds to thousands to "your guess is as good as mine."

So there's a cheese to satisfy your eating lifestyle, every second of every hungry minute, with its satiety value. "Satiety" is a different word for the satisfied feeling you get when you eat cheese.

People say "cheese" to look attractive for photographs, "big cheese" for important persons. In the dictionary you can find cheesecake, cheesecloth and cheeseburger.

That's probably why per capita consumption of cheese goes up every year in spite of inflationary costs, health concerns and attacks upon animal foods by activists of one persuasion or another. It fits today's lifestyle and is compatible with most eating situations.

Since 1955, per capita consumption of cheese has gone up 144 percent!

In 1955, Americans consumed 7.3 pounds of cheese per capita. In 1980, Americans were each eating an average of 17.8 pounds of cheese. That's still less than half the per capita consumption of cheese in European countries such as France or Greece.

Practically every foreign variety of cheese is manufactured in the United States. You don't have to be a cheese lover to know that this versatile dairy food has had a tremendous effect on all of us. For example, cheese has created words and grammar. Cheeses have names like Gorgonzola or Gouda. Countries, too, from Italy to Switzerland have national cheese favorites. Cities such as Cheddar, Muenster, Parma, Rome and Limburg have cheese named after them!

Ladies Have You Heard?

By Doris Thomas

Lancaster Extension Home Economist

"PINEAPPLE FROM ZUCCHINI" RECIPE INCOMPLETE

Zucchini squash is famous for forcing home gardeners into culinary extremes. This year a recipe called "pineapple from zucchini" is making the rounds, and while it is basically sound, food scientists at Penn State have a concern.

They tested the recipe in their labs and found that its high acidity makes it a safe product for boiling water canning. The problem is that the recipe simply calls for packing the cooked mixture into jars and sealing.

This should be followed by 15 minutes processing in a boiling water canner. This final step is needed to destroy any airborne or empty container contaminants that can grow on the surface of the product. If you have already put up a stock of pineapple from zucchini, which is used as a substitute for crushed pineapple, they advise you to check each jar. Discard any that show evidence of swelling or mold growth. For those jars that look all right, remove the lids, put on new lids and process in boiling water for 15 minutes.

The complete — and correct — recipe for "pineapple from zucchini" follows: Peel and shred 2 quarts of zucchini squash, add one-half can (23 ounces) unsweetened pineapple juice, three-fourths cup lemon juice and one and one-half cups sugar. Bring to a boil and simmer for 20 minutes. Pour into jars, seal and process for 15 minutes in a boiling water canner. Use as a substitute for crushed pineapple in cooking.

THE ESSENTIAL INGREDIENT

Eggs are a staple food indispensable in planning and preparing family meals. They can be served in so many ways and are the basic ingredient in so many kinds of foods that they are likely to appear in some form at nearly every meal.

High in protein, they are economical and can be the basis of light, easy to prepare meals.

Now is an excellent time to try eggs in old and new ways because they are in plentiful supply.

To be sure of getting quality eggs, buy graded eggs at a market that keeps them refrigerated. The USDA grade mark assures you that the eggs were of a specific quality at the time of grading. Assuming proper handling after the time of grading, there should be little loss in quality. Grades range from B to AA; these are marks of quality, not safety, since all of these eggs pass inspection for wholesomeness before reaching your store.

When boiling eggs, lower them gently into boiling water; simmer until done. Cooking time depends on how you want to eat them — soft, medium or hard yolk. Have a ready bowl of ice-cold water and plunge the cooked eggs into it for a few minutes after cooking; this stops the cooking process and assures you that the eggs will be exactly at the degree of doneness that you prefer.

Hard cooked eggs are perfect additions to many main-dish meals. For example, when making a spinach salad, add chopped hard boiled eggs to spinach, raw mushrooms and bacon bits. Or, try that favorite from the south of France, salade Nicoise. Combine hard boiled eggs, sliced lengthwise, with tuna fish, anchovies, black olives, sliced tomatoes, onion rings, and your favorite salad greens. A simple oil and vinegar dressing, perhaps perked up with chopped capers, completes the meal. Serve with hot, crusy French bread, butter and fresh fruit for dessert.

Foreign investors buy U. S. food, restaurant chains

WASHINGTON D.C. — Foreign investors are buying into the American food system, not by purchasing vast farm acreage, but by obtaining control of certain U.S. grocery, hotel and restaurant chains as well as food processing plants, a recent survey shows.

A & P, Grand Union, Howard Johnson, Stouffers and the International House of Pancakes are among grocery and restaurant chains now foreign controlled, the study by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service disclosed.

Foreign companies own 14 U.S. foodstore chains outright and hold a partial share in nine others as of April 1980, according to the study by USDA economists Naaman Seigle and Charles Handy. These firms in 1979 rang up combined sales of about $19 billion, nearly 11 percent of total U.S. grocery store sales.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A & P), had revenues of nearly $6.7 billion in 1979. A West German firm owns a 50 percent share of A & P. A British concern owns Grand Union Co., another food retail giant, with $3.9 billion in sales.

Other American firms under foreign ownership include Keebler's crackers, Libby's, Peter Paul, Wishbone, Seagram, Good Humor and Tetley. The firms provide cookies, candy, sauces, tea, coffee and alcoholic beverages.

Foreign investment in U.S. food manufacturing firms reached $2.6 billion in 1979, the USDA survey showed.

The survey, published in the summer edition of the National Food Review and the September issue of Farmline, both USDA publications, found that the first significant foreign investment in the U.S. commercial food sector began with Benihana of Tokyo, a Japanese-style steakhouse in 1964. In 1975, 11 foreign-owned firms or franchises operated in the industry but by December, 1980, 44 foreign firms had franchisor or proprietary interest in 48 U.S. operations.

However, there are two sides to the foreign ownership question, according to USDA analysts. U.S. affiliates of foreign firms use American farm products, employ U.S. workers, invest in U.S. materials and technology and put a large share of their profits back into the U.S. economy. In the food manufacturing industry, for example, they have reinvested about 80 percent of their earnings in the U.S. in recent years. The remaining 20 percent was transferred abroad as dividends to their overseas owners.

Outside investors also provide a source of much-needed funds to finance growth, technology to modernize, and marketing skills to increase sales.

Although total direct foreign investment in the U.S. has doubled in the last five years, the stock of U.S. investment in foreign food firms is still over three times as great, USDA economists say.

U.S. food processors own affiliates and franchises in more than 140 countries. In Canada and Mexico, U.S. food firms account for more than half of all sales of processed foods. In Western European nations, U.S. firms hold 5 to 25 percent of the market. American restaurant and fast food franchisors have established nearly 4,000 outlets abroad.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our early morning visit to the Aalsmeer Flower Markets was a dream come true for a flower lover. I couldn't believe that there were as many colorful flowers as I saw on my one mile walk through part of a 32-acre building all under one roof.

Within 15 miles of being auctioned, the roses are on their way to the airport to be sent all over the world. I managed to bring home a bouquet of miniature flame colored roses and baby breath which I bought for 3½ gilders.

We visited two farms near Amsterdam and both had 25 cow carousel milking parlors. One was newly reclaimed land on which a Swiss farmer lived. He had all new buildings, including a very nice home. He was paid 16 cents a pound for milk and he bought soybean meal for $280 per ton. Each year he pays the state $120 per acre for his leased land.

The other place near Monickedam was a cheese farm where not only were 140 cows milked daily but also 140 goats. There were 24 goats in the parlor at one time. At this farm a methane generator was being built to produce electricity.

Many kinds of cheese were sold at the farm and I bought a delicious herb cheese that contained celery, chives, parsley, garlic and marjoram. A friend of mine from Holland translated the ingredients for me.

We drove through the new town named Lelystad that was built in 1966. The houses had red tile roofs and all the windows had beautiful lace curtains.

The old town of Edam is famous for its cheese and salt and at one time 30 shipbuilders lived there.

Our final evening meal together was held in a Chinese-Indonesian restaurant and was a joyous and sad occasion all at the same time. Our 2000-mile bus trip on the continent was over and we were going home.

We flew from Amsterdam to London the following morning. We left Heathrow Airport on a British Airways plane. And, as it was the day of Prince Charles's wedding, all of the 426 passenger were given a complimentary drink. We flew at 33,000 feet for seven hours traveling 650 miles per hour. We were served a nice meal and for an extra charge could hear a movie that was shown.

Later, at the Kennedy Airport in New York, I anxiously waited for a plane to fly me to Philadelphia where my husband and daughter met at that night.

ALLENTOWN — The Lehigh County 4-H Livestock Judging Team, chosen state champs at State Achievement Days in August at Penn State, scored high team overall at the 1981 Eastern U.S. 4-H and FFA Contest in Virginia, and the 56th Annual Eastern States Exposition in Springfield, Mass., September 19.

The team includes Diane Krause, Slatington; Jane Sikorski, Emmaus; Bonnie Wessner, New Tripoli; and coaches, Greg Snyder, New Tripoli; Gail Snyder, New Tripoli; and Kathy Listwak, Allentown, 4-H Coordinator.

At Massachusetts, the team judged 12 classes of livestock: 5 of beef, 4 of swine, and 3 of sheep. Afterwards they gave 3 oral sets of reasons — one from each species — explaining how they placed the respective class.

Willi Wilson, who judged also at the Virginia State Fair, received seond high overall and fourth place in sheep judging.

Diane Krause of Slatington emerged from the judging at Virginia with the title of first high individual in beef judging and Bonnie Wessner received the same title in sheep judging.

Overall, the Lehigh team was first place team in cattle, swine and sheep judging at Massachusetts and first in sheep, third in beef and third in swine at Virginia, placing over 7 other states: Georgia, Maryland, West Virginia, Indiana, South Carolina, Virginia and North Carolina.

Man can't match aquatic antics of animals

Flippers, snorkles, goggles, wet suits: Humans will don some strange-looking equipment in order to feel more at home in the water. But according to Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine, no matter what we wear, we simply can't match the aquatic abilities of those animals who are born with special diving gear. These super swimmers include:

Dolphins — Found in most of the world's oceans, these marine mammals are equipped with a sophisticated sonar system for locating food, obstacles, and each other in the dark water. The dolphin's eyes are covered with thick outer layer and a gland secretes an oily liquid which bathes the outside of the eyes.

"The layers and the liquid protect the dolphin's eyes so the salty sea water won't make them sting," explains the National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children.

Although it must come to the surface to breathe, the dolphin can store much more air in its lungs than a human can. When hunting for fish or squid, it can dive to depths of up to 800 feet.

Sea Lions — Like dolphins, sea lions have streamlined bodies and built-in flippers.

"With powerful strokes of these big front flippers, a sea lion can swim as fast as 20 miles per hour," reports Ranger Rick. The sea lion's hind flippers act as a rudder, to keep it on course or help it change direction.

When pursued by an enermy, sea lions "porpoise," or leap, through the crest of waves offshore. This method of "body-surfing" also performed by dolphins, uses less energy than swimming below the water's surface. Sea lions can stay underwater for up to 20 minutes and can descend to at least 450 feet, although a trained California sea lion once set a diving record of 820 feet.

Hippopotamus — How can the heavy, clumsy-looking hippo be classified as a super swimmer? "By holding in just the right amount of air, hippos become nearly 'weightless' underwater," explains Ranger Rick. Then they rather gracefully half swim and half tiptoe along river bottoms.

The hippopotamus — the word means "river horse" in Greek — must spend most of the day in the water. Its skin dries out so fast that the big animal would die if it couldn't soak in water or mud. At night hippos emerge and graze on land.

River Otters — With its sleek, streamlined body and tail, a river otter can swim fast and turn quickly, and it can dive in a flash, leaving scarcely a ripple. Special flaps close automatically underwater, like hatches on a submarine.

Penguins — These highly specialized birds do fly, in a sense, underwater. Their wings are powerful flippers which propel them through the water swiftly. Penguin feathers make fantastic "wetsuits." Thick, short, rigid, and overlapping, the feathers and a layer of fat beneath the skin keep the birds from freezing to death in the the icy water.

Some varieties of penguins spend months at sea, straying onshore only to breed, lay eggs, or molt. While diving for food — shrimp, squid, or krill — they usually surface every two or three minutes to breathe. This large penguine is also a deep diver; a vertical plunge of 885 feet has been recorded.

Notes Ranger Rick, "That's almost twice as deep as the record for a human diver with scuba gear — and the penguin was just holding its breath!"

There are sixteen nations with more sheep than people. Australia leads, having the largest population of sheep in the world.

Rural free delivery celebrates 85 years of helping

LANCASTER — Through the years, rural people - specifically farmers, have reaped the benefits the rural deliverer has provided. This week celebrates 85 years of continuous friendly, reliable and efficient service.

Before the late 1890s, all rural Americans had to journey in to town to pick up their mail at the post office, until Postmaster General John Wanamaker conducted, in 1891, a free delivery mail experiment in 46 small towns and villages across the country. The 85-year-old tradition of rendering "Service with a Smile," however, officially began on October 1, 1896 out of Charles Town, Uvilla and Halltown, West Virginia.

While the mode of transportation has changed since that time, a rural leter carrier continues to operate as a "Post Office on Wheels" and performs a variety of "beyond-the-call-of-duty services," such as helping the handicapped, blind and the elderly pay their bills.

Rural Delivery has grown from serving over 10 million American families in 1970 to over 15 million in 1980, as the Nation's population has shifted to rural areas within the past decade.

"For the first time in 160 years, rural areas and small towns are growing at a faster rate than metropolitan areas," according to a study conducted by U.S. News & World Report. Statistics of the U.S. Department of Commerce reveal that the population of non-metropolitan areas increased from 53.2 million people in 1970 to 61.4 million in 1980.

Americans moving from suburban and urban areas to rural communities often do not realize that along with country living comes a different type of mail service. Rural Free Delivery is unique because the rural letter carries operate as a "Post Office on Wheels," rendering all those services provided at a local post office.

Specifically, rural carriers sell money order applications and stamps, as well as affix the latter. They register and insure certified mail. Also, they deliver and pick-up letters and parcels.

In addition to providing a variety of postal services for the past 85 years, rural carries make the effort and take the responsibility to help out their patrons in a personal way.

"Qute often, rural carriers have been known to save their patrons' lives," said Wilbur S. Wood, President of the National Rural Letter Carriers' Association. "If a patron's mail accumulates, it tells the carrier that the patron may be seriously ill or may have suffered a stroke and is collapsed on the floor. In such cases, the rural carrier has been known to call a hospital and then provide first-aid until medical assistance arrives."

Re: House bill #1483

Fellow Pennsylvanians:
House bill 1483 is a dangerous infringement on the FREEDOM AND PROPERTY RIGHTS of all citizens of the Commonwealth. You should request a free copy from your representative.
HB 1483 says:
"The water resources of this Commonwealth are public natural resources held in trust by the Commonwealth for the benefit of all the people." Page 7 line 18
HB 1483 provides the right of EMINENT DOMAIN for, not only a bureaucracy of the Commonwealth but for certain public utilities-the right to CONFISCATE the water from your well, even after you paid for a permit.
HB 1483 provides, "duly authorized agents are authorized at all reasonable times to enter and examine any property," "the owner shall give the agents free and unrestricted access." "Upon refusal to grant entry or access, the agent or employee may obtain a search warrant..." Page 42,43.
YOU MUST cry out against this infringement on YOUR property rights.

85 years of helping

To the children on the route, the carrier is sometimes "Santa Claus" when he gives them candy along with the mail. And to all of the patrons, the rural carrier renders that legendary "Service with a Smile."

Although members of Congress did not fully support Wanamaker's Rural Free Delivery idea, the nation's farmers did.

They felt discriminated against and realized that home delivery would save time, which meant money. The farmers also felt that they were being taxed so that city people could enjoy home mail delivery which had begun in 1863.

Postmaster General Bissell, who succeeded John Wanamaker, refused to institute a Rural Free Delivery experiment with the $20,000 appropriated by Congress. He resigned in 1895 and Rural Free Delivery began under the succeeding Postmaster General William L. Wilson. While Wilson, too, was not enthusiastic about Rural Free Delivery, he said that since the people continued to demand it, he would not stand in the way; Congress only needed to appropriate the money once more and he would do his best to conduct a successful experiment.

With $40,000 appropriated, Postmaster General Wilson in 1856 chose his hometown of Charles Town and two other villages, Halltown and Uvilla near the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains and the banks of the Shenandoah River, as the first sites where Rural Free Delivery would officially begin.

The five original carriers traveled their 20-mile routes on horseback, bicycle or horse and buggy. Today's rural carriers travel daily 2,309,313 miles in 4-wheel drive jeeps or right-hand drive cars along one of the 36,102 rural routes throughout the country.

As a result of Rural Free Delivery, many roads were built and improved in rural areas, linking up communities. Subsequently, the home delivery of weekly and daily newspapers was possible.

The timely, home delivery of such mail may be in jeopardy by 1984, however, The entire public service appropriation (P.S.A.), to the USPS is scheduled for complete elimination by 1984 under the provisions of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act which was passed this year. P.S.A. monies have been an historical guarantee for R.F.D. services; they have been provided by Congress to help defray the cost of financing unprofitable postal services like comprehensive rural delivery.

With the elimination of such funds and rising inflation costs, the Postal Service could decide to eliminate some services, such as Saturday mail delivery, if postal rates and productivity are not increased. A bill, H.R. 1300, sponsored by Congressman Tom Corcoran (R-Ill.), would mandate Congressional approval over any Postal Service decision to reduce services which would have a nationwide impact.

Historically, the preservation of rural free delivery services has depended upon people writing letters to Congress, as the farmers did in 1895 for the need to appropriate funds. The times today are no different.

Average American consumes about 1400 lb. per year

WASHINGTON D.C. — The average American ate 1,402 pounds of food last year but paid proportionately less for it than in 1960, according to a recent U.S. Department of Agriculture study.

Consumer expenditures climbed 319 percent from 1960 to 1980 but, proportionately, food gained less than other items in the consumer's budget. In 1960, about 20 cents of each dollar of disposable income went for food. Last year, food took about 16 cents of the disposable dollar, the survey showed.

In the last 20 years, shifts in consumption patterns affected many products. Consumption of frozen orange juice, for example, increased 98 percent, from 4.6 pounds per capita in 1960 to 9.1 pounds last year. Beef consumption per capita was up 21 percent, from 64.3 to 78.1 pounds. Beef consumption has been dropping each year since 1976 when it hit a record 95.7 pounds per capita.

Chicken consumption also gained dramatically going from 27.8 pounds per person in 1960 to 51.2 pounds in 1980 — an 84 percent increase. The biggest gainer was cheese, going from 8.3 pounds per capita to 17.9, an increase of 116 percent.

But some foods lost ground. Potatoes dropped from 80.4 pounds per person in 1960 to 44.4 in 1980, a loss of 45 percent. Egg consumption declined 17 percent, from 42.4 pounds per capita in 1960 to 35.4 twenty years later.

All fluid milk consumption decreased from 290 pounds per capita in 1960 to 243 per pound last year. Other losers were sugar, down 12 percent, and fresh peaches, down 38 percent.

Marstellar, Warner are York's top tractor drivers

YORK — Two Kennard-Dale High School vocational agricultural youths, one a recent graduate of the program, earned top honors in the York Fair's youth tractor driving runoffs.

John Marstellar, Jr., R3 Stewartstown, won the 4-H competition, while Todd Warner, R1 New Park, edged out several contestants in the FFA division.

For Marstellar, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Marsteller, Sr., this year's win was just the latest in a series of youth tractor maneuvering honors. He also took the 4-H title at least twice before, including a win as well as having capped the FFA competition for two years previous.

The Kennard-Dale FFA graduate admits to an affinity for farm tractors, saying he spends most of his time "on them, or working on them" as part of his full-time employment on the Marstellar beef and crops operation. In November, he'll enter the Vale Technical School near Pittsburgh to further study engines and auto mechanics.

Todd Warner is the son of dairy farmers Mr. and Mrs. James Warner, R1 New Park, and a junior in the vo-ag program at Kennard-Dale.

Like Marstellar, Warner has won his second-in-a-row FFA tractor driving championship. After a second win, says Warner, the FFA retires their champions.

Both youth driving winners attest that they climbed on tractors when they were small boys, getting plenty of on-the-job training for driving competition.

Competitors must start and stop their machines, pull and back wagons into marked stalls, identify parts, and complete written tests.

Runner-up in the 4-H competition was Roy Thompson, East Berlin, and Melvin Marks, the Red Lion FFA chapter, placed second in the FFA division.

At Cumberland Co. Leader's Banquet

Sewing leader remembers past 30 years

BY BETH HEMMINGER

SHIPPENSBURG — "Thirty years seems like yesterday," commented Rose Leidigh after receiving her award for 30 years of service as a 4-H sewing leader at the annual Cumberland County 4-H Leaders Banquet held last week.

Mrs. Leidigh started her long-enjoyed career in the late 1940's. She reflects back to when it all began.

"I was walking in from the corn patch when I saw my good friend Ada Beagle standing on the front porch. She was the Cumberland County Home Economist. While we visited over coffee and sweets, she confronted me about becoming a 4-H leader. 'The county is in need of some good seamstresses,' said the Home Economist. Consequently, I couldn't say no and I became a sewing leader in Cumberland County with my daughters as my first members," remarked Mrs. Leidigh.

"The club started in late spring and summer and girls would walk from all over the nearby countryside; some walking over two miles to meet at my house every Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock to learn to sew," she said.

Shortly after the club was formed, it was christened "Busy Bees" and the same name has prevailed for 30 years. "Only the 4-H'ers faces and names have changed," she added.

"In those early yeas of the 40's and 50's the sewing projects were a bit different than today's sewing projects," chuckled Mrs. Leidigh as she invisioned the cotton and muslin garments of long ago.

The 4-H'er's first project was a tie-string apron usually made from cotton calico or muslin. "It sounds simple?" she exclaimed. "Well, most of the apron was constructed by hand with little assistance from the treadle machine." That was the aim of the apron project she said - to teach the girls how to hand sew which was a necessity in those days.

Slips and petticoats were the second project. She recalls that these two garments had a variety of fancy handwork on them, hand-worked lace edges and embroidered bodices. She said, "We didn't have the zig-zag stitch or any other comparable machine type finish; it took hours to finish the lacy edges, but it was an art and very beautiful."

Then as now, each 4-H'er progressed each year making a new and more difficult garment. However, she said, 30 years ago everything was made with cotton or muslin unlike today with all of the different man-made textiles.

She jokingly remarks, "One of the highlights of my career as a leader and seamstress was during the depression when "feed sacks" were the big rage in materials. Mrs. Leidigh explained that during that time retailed material was not available so everyone used feed sacks to make clothing, sheets,

(Turn to Page B23)

A thirty-year veteran, Rose Leidigh received a flower arrangement for her many years of dedication and service as a 4-H leader in Cumberland County. Alan Wentz, Cumberland County 4-H agent presented the gift.

The Silver Anniversary Leader in Cumberland County is Dorothy Jones. Mrs. Jones has been a sewing leader for 25 years in the "Newville Creators."

Ferreting out ferret farmer is farming fun

The Path Valley Farm of Chuck and Fox Morton also features Nubian goats bred for showing. In background amidst isolated pasture are ferret breeding pens.

Ferrets romp all over Fox Morton. The little, slinky creatures are one of the world's oldest domestic animals and make playful, affectionate pets.

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

WILLOW HILL — The county and the man it's named after might both be considered enigmas.

Ben Franklin, likely the most diversified intellectual at the time of the birth of this nation, achieved his goals in the most practical and often earthy ways.

For example, while serving as an ambassador abroad, he collected many seeds to send back to the foundling nation. Often, courtly ladies seeking his favor would smuggle the seeds off the gentleman farms of their husbands and this helped found the dawning nation's agriculture.

In 1784, Pennsylvania honored its most prominent resident by naming a county after him. Franklin County lies in the extreme southcentral part of the state on the Maryland border.

Although within a short distance of numerous metropolitan centers, Franklin is largely rural in nature.

One of the most picturesque sections is the extreme northern Path Valley, whose only blot inflicted by civilization is the Turnpike which slices through it.

Otherwise, it's a peaceful valley of small, sometimes specialized, farmers, including a settlement of about 40 Amish.

It is a fitting place that one of the most unique agricultural enterprises in the state should be located.

The livestock enterprise is that of ferret farmers Chuck and Fox Morton, who operate the Path Valley Farm.

The Mortons operate the third largest ferret breeding farm in the nation, presently having about 400 animals.

"This number fluctuates up and down, depending on litter sizes and our commercial sales," Morton explains

Litters can range from one to 22 and averages close to seven – the number of teats on the female.

While the word "ferret" likely brings to mind a wild animal, they actually are one of the oldest domestic animals. It is believed they were first domesticated by the Egyptians at least 3,000 years ago.

Queen Elizabeth I and Queen Victoria of England both had pet ferrets.

"Domestic ferrets were first introduced to this country in the late-1800's," Morton explains.

"A going business at that time was the ferret meister who went from farm to farm and rented out his animals who drove rats and other rodents from their burrows so that the terriers could finish them off."

In fact, many royalty kept them for the same reason. They're about the best mousers and ratters in the world.

"Although they're the natural enemy of rodents," Fox Morton explains, "they make some of the best and most trusthworthy pets."

"They live to 10 or 11 years, but never lose their inborn playfulness, which resembles that of a kitten. They have an insatiable curiosity and become extremely affectionate."

Probably, the best description of a ferret ever written was calling it an animated piece of elastic, a furry pretzel come to life, a warm and cuddly slinky toy.

The small, slender, winsome creatures are at least triple jointed.

Nearly two feet long, about four inches high and weighing about two pounds, the descedents of an Eurasian weasel are able to turn around in a burrow just two and one half inches wide.

Is it any wonder they can run rodents out of their holes?

And it's from this ability that the ferret's archaic and ill-deserved reputation as a rabbit hunter has developed. At one time, they were used for this purpose, but they've become so domesticated they likely couldn't survive in the wild if they had to.

Because of this old-fashioned reputation and Pennsylvania laws that are just about as Victorian, ferrets, as pets, are strictly controlled in the Commonwealth by the State Game Commission.

The Mortons, who also breed Nubian goats and maintain a rabbit breeding operation on a neighboring farm, are among the few self-taught ferret experts in the nation.

They're also filled with historical anecdotes about the ferrets.

The ferret was among the most patriotic of animals in World War II. Due to their burrowing and twisting agility and trainability, ferrets were used to wire B-29 airplane wings. And as early as World War I, they helped in underground wiring in such places as St. Louis.

Like all livestock enterprises, ferret raising has its pitfalls.

"They're extremely sensitive and touchy at birthing," Morton explains, "and the first eight weeks is a critical time."

But as pets, they appear to be ideal, even if unusual. They're house-trained by the mother at about three weeks and will eat mostly dry cat food, plus a couple drops of Linatone.

Actually, there's a wild species of the ferret indigenous to North America. It's the black-footed ferret, which wasn't identified until 1851 by Audubon. It is now on the endangered species list and should not be confused with the domestic European variety.

And the little animal also added a word to the English language. Because of its burrowing navigational ability, to ferret out has become a descriptive verb.

Natural burrowing animal, ferrets will seek any confined space into which they can crawl.

curtains, furniture covers, pillow cases and more.

During those years she remembers the 4-H project changing to meet the feed sack need. She explained that the feed sacks were a tightly woven cotton, usually printed or plain colors, but were never long enough to make a full-length dress except for a small child. The girls had to make waists, or what is known as blouses, and skirts.

"When I tell the 4-H sewers today about the "feed sack era," they look at me in amazement and distaste," she chuckles. "But it really wasn't terrible, it was just accepted."

"As time moves on so have the Busy Bees," she stated. "Many 4-H'ers and their memories have come and gone during the club's 30 years, and I have progressed with those times," she said. "New fashions: minis, maxis, tailored, baggies, new fabrics-polyesters, rayon, acrylics, inflation and automation."

Now the girls learn to sew on the machine with several built-in stitches. They sew with a variety of fabrics and make suits, coats, pants and more.

"And today," she sighed, "a spool of thread costs one dollar compared to a nickle of thirty years ago."

Busy Bees has an enrollment of 16 which is much larger than in its novice years she noted, due to the automobile and its speed. "Times have changed, but the basis of 4-H is still the same," said Mrs. Leidigh, "learning, helping, sharing and doing."

Mrs. Leidigh happily remarked, "During my 30 years as a 4-H leader I have enjoyed every minute working with the young people. They are exciting, fun and full of life.

She laughs, "In the club everyone calls me 'Grammy.' 4-H'ers haven't changed much, they still forget their thread, scissors, and measuring tapes and come running to 'Granny' to borrow the tools and ask for help."

"Thirty years isn't a very long time in a person's life, especially when you truly enjoy what you are doing and I truly have enjoyed my involvement with 4-H and will continue to enjoy every minute I am teaching and helping the girls in the Busy Bee 4-H Club," Mrs. Leidigh said.

USDA reports record crop year

WASHINGTON, D.C. — USDA reported last week that this will be a record crop year. It noted the "all crops" index stood at 114 (percent of its 1977 average) on September 1, up nearly 2 percent from both a month ago and the previous all time high set in 1979.

Increased corn, soybean, and cotton prospects were mainly responsible for the rise.

Corn production is now forecast at a record 7.94 billion bushels. That is 3 percent above the August 1 forecast, 19 percent more than a year ago, and fractionally above the previous record of 7.938 billion bushels set in 1979, reported USDA.

Sorghum output is set at 864 million bushels, up nearly 50 percent from last year's small crop and the highest since 1973.

With the production of oats and barley already seen at 7.4 million tons, respectively, that means feed grain (corn, sorghum, oats, and barley) production is being forecast at a record 241 million metric tons, up 22 percent from a year ago, nearly 2 percent above the previous high set in 1979.

Soybean production is now estimated by USDA at 2.09 billion bushels, up 4 percent from the August forecast, 15 percent above last year's output — and the second largest on record.

Tobacco production is forecast at 1.97 billion pounds, up 11 percent from a year ago and the largest since 1978.

Where is all the production coming from? From more harvest acreage and higher yields per acre.

All wheat is seen at a record 80.7 million acres, up 10 million acres from last year. The total tops a previous high of 75.9 million acres harvested in 1949. Yield per acre, at 34.1 bushels, is up from last year's 33.4 bushels and second only to the record 34.2 bushels set in 1979.

Corn is forecast at 74.1 million acres, up from 73.1 million acres last year and the hgihest since 1949. Yield per acre, at 107.1 bushels is up from last year's 91.0 bushel average and second only to the 109.7 bushels of 1979.

Soybeans are seen at 66.9 million acres, the lowest since 1978. But yield per acre is seen at 31.2 bushels, second only to the record 32.1 bushel average of 1979.

Tax law enables farmers to escape inheritance tax

By David Morrison
Attorney at Law

LANCASTER — As a result of the new tax law, almost all Lancaster County farms may be passed on to family members free of Federal Estate Taxes. But not without proper estate planning and, in the case of larger farms, use of the special farm valuation election.

For example, a $450,000 farm passing from father to son could bear a tax of $76,000 in 1982. By splitting the farm between husband and wife, and using a testamentary trust, the taxes are reduced to zero. The saving is lost if one spouse dies before the farm can be split.

Under the new divorce law, property is equitably divided between the couple regardless of who has title, so splitting the ownership does not carry the risk it once had.

Most families would like to own their farm jointly, and that is now the thing to do with farms valued under $250,000.

The. Pennsylvania Inheritance taxes for farms has also been reduced to only tax the farm valued as a farm, and not its highest and best use.

If a couple does not want to divide the farm, they have to use the special farm valuation rules. If a farm is in an area ripe for development, its value as a farm will be much lower than its value as a development. These farms get special treatment.

The amount a farmer can deduct from the highest and best use valuation will go up in the near future:

1983	750,000

But there are many strings attached.

First.
Ten Year Financing Requirement.

Under the new law, the farm cannot be sold for development for ten years. There is, however, allowance for a like-kind simultaneous exchange to sell and purchase another farm.

Second:
Uncle Sam Becomes A Partner.

When the farm valuation election is made, Uncle Sam becomes a partner in the farm by putting a ten year lien on the farm for the full estate tax. If at any time the farmer needs to borrow money, IRS has to be asked to lower the priority of its lien in order for the loan to go through.

Third:
Active Farm Management Required Of Heirs

Gentlemen farmers who just lease the farm do not qualify as farmers. While driving a tractor is not necessary, active farm management is required of heirs who utilize the special farm valuation. The new law, however, gives heirs a two year period to start farming.

Fourth:
Material Participation Required Of Decedent.

The decedent must have materially participated in farming for five of the eight years preceding his death, disability or retirement.

Fifth: Timely Election.

The election for farm use valuation must be made when the estate tax return is filed. Under the new law, the election can also be made if the return is filed late. Of

Take your calf for a stroll

Earl Weaver of New Holland poses here with a Caf-Cart, a new device created by Raytec Manufacturing of Ephrata. You see him dehorning, but it can also be used for general movement, clipping, and hauling farm supplies.

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

LANCASTER — A calf cart? Why not? People use strollers to haul their children from place to place, why shouldn't we have such help moving our calves?

Well, now we can. Caf-Cart is a cart on wheels big enough to hold a 300-pound calf made by a company called Raytec Manufacturing from Ephrata.

It's highly unlikely you'd ever want to take your calf for a stroll for all the neighbors to see, but moving him from pen to pen might become less of a chore with this new "contraption."

Caf-Cart is designed to take the strain out of moving young calves from meadow to hutch to barn. It features a load-from-the-ground-level design, so there's no lifting — supposedly to save your animals from injury, but perhaps actually saved would be you and your back.

The cart features six-inch ground clearance and over-sized, rubber-tired wheels to help it float over rough terrain.

And this cart even has those baby strollers beat — you can't lock your child's head in place for cleaning ears and cutting hair, but on Caf-Cart you can lock your calf's head in place for dehorning and clipping.

Caf-Cart has been around for a year and according to Raymond Zimmerman, president at Raytec, the cart has "sold quite well in California. It's a good state for us — they have bigger farms."

He continued, "We expect the market to be big; it's quite unique. It may not be for every farm, but it's good for dehorning. Now it only takes one man, where as before it took two or three."

If you think that the cart may be a waste of time, think of other uses of Caf-Cart. You can carry feed and water to the hutches in it. Caf-Cart won't tip over because of its counter-balanced axle, so you also can haul tools, fence posts and building supplies.

The price of one Caf-Cart is $215, plus $18 for a headlock.

Perhaps a stroll with Caf-Cart will become the norm — not to show off the calf, but to display your cart!

course, the executor still has to pay the penalties for late filing.

Sixth: Formula For Valuation

There are two formula which can be used for valuation. One is based on the average farm home loan bank interest rate for the past five years, and the other involves past income and capitalization of earnings.

The farm valuation election is so complicated it requires the services of a tax attorney who specializes in farms. Nevertheless, it can result in great savings.

As an example, assume a husband and wife owns a large farm and meat processing business. They split the farm and business into two equal parts, and die in 1987.

Husband:	$1.30 million
	-750,000 special valuation
	-600,000 exemption
	equivalent
	-0- tax
Wife:	$1.35 million
	-750,000 special valuation
	-600,000 exemption
	equivalent
	-0- tax

Because of the presumption of 50% ownership of entireties property under the new act, the unlimited marital deduction and the elimination of the three-year gifts and presumption of death provision, substantial new estate planning opportunities are open.

SALE TO HEIR

Frequently the surviving spouse desires to sell the farm to a son or daughter at a reduced rate. If the grantor is the estate, a substantial capital gains tax could result. But if the grantor is the surviving spouse, and a reduced basis resulting from farm valuation is matched to the consideration, a much lower tax results. This has been complicated under the new act because now, regardless of whose money bought the farm, half will be considered to be the husband's and half the wife's. If the farm is sold for less than fair market value, a gift tax return must be filed.

A minimum of 7% interest must be charged for mortgages or other loans under the new law (it was 10% before if the interest rate was unstated, and 9% if stated). However, the interest can be forgiven annually by use of the new $10,000 annual exclusion. This special 7% interest can only be used on loans to farmily members not in excess of $500,000.

With professional planning, we now have the ability to pass on farms and closely held businesses to family members without burdensome estate taxes.

Pinehurst Farm Holsteins takes All-American honors

HARRISBURG — Wisconsin breeder David Bachmann swept virtually every group class and was named Premier Breeder and Exhibitor of the Eastern National Holstein Show during the All-American Dairy Show last week.

In addition, Pinehurst Farms, (Bachmann's prefix) claimed the Best Milking Female. The Sheboygan Falls dairyman's aged cow entry Pinehurst Charity made 21, 754 pounds of milk as a 4-year-old with a 4 percent butterfat test. The top producer is sired by Pinehurst Copyright and out of Rudester Matt Pepsi.

Bachmann's winnings added to his previous day's record which included the Grand Champion banner for his senior yearling bull International Genpedro.

Show judge Bertram Stewart, Ontario, chose two New York Black and Whites as this years Grand and Reserve Champion. Shadowcliff RA Gina, exhibited by Bower Farm, Inc., Lagrangeville, N.Y. captured the Grand Champion banner. The 4-year-old cow is sired by the Eastern National Premier Sire Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation and out of C Kolmar Lena Herd Master-Twin.

The Reserve Grand Champion Gaydale Fury Sadie was exhibited by George Morgan or Tyrbach Holsteins, Walton, N.Y. Sired by Ideal Fury Reflector, the aged cow is out of J&P Gaydale Matt Sadie.

Judge Stewart chose a senior yearling at this year's Junior Champion. The Ultimate daughter, Sky Vu Ultimate Lestwood, is co-owned by Paul and Judy Trapp, Hastings, Minnesota and Arlene and Tom Rouhtree, Ontario.

Reserve Junior Champion honors went to a senior yearling exhibited by Douglass Maddox of Ru Ann Holsteins, Inc., Avon, N.Y. Pehrson-Hyline Chris Lola is sired by Brondale Sir Christopher and out of Pehrson-Hyline Veediction Jeni.

Congressman petitions Block on CCC grain backlog

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In an effort to "avert a potential market catastrophe," Northwest Iowa Congressman Berkley Bedell contacted Secretary of Agriculture John Block urging him to take "immediate action" to speed the movement of government-owned corn out of local elevators and terminal facilities into government storage facilities.

Once Bedell became aware of the "developing backlog" of Commodity Credit Corporation owned grain in Iowa elevators and terminals, the Sixth District Representative telephoned the United States Department of Agriculture to express his concern over the "potentially disasterous" situation. Bedell then followed the phone call with a short letter to Secretary Block outlining his concerns.

"I have been contacted by several elevator managers who are extremely concerned that little or no action has been taken on their requests for loading orders to move this grain to government storage facilities," said Bedell, a member of the House Agriculture Committee.

"I am concerned that this serious situation could develop into a crisis, if, because of disastrously low cash prices, many farmers decide to forfeit their grain under loan with the government instead of repaying the principle and interest," said Bedell in his letter.

Bedell expressed concern that if the government-owned corn was not removed from local elevators, there would be inadequate commercial storage capacity for this fall's record corn crop.

Bedell said the tight storage situation was first brought to his attention by the elevator manager in Wall Lake, Iowa.

PGC needs volunteers

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Game Commission is expanding its study of grouse and grouse hunting activity and needs additional volunteer cooperators to provide more data.

Hunters are asked to keep records of hunting hours and the number of times grouse are flushed. Cooperating hunters are also requested to submit both wings, and the tail and rump feathers.

Grouse hunters willing to assist are encouraged to contact Game Biologist John Kriz, P.O. Box 31, Fairview, PA 16415.

Beware of deadly silo gases

There's no question that modern glass-lined silos offer advantages to farmers in feed and forage preservation. But they also present a greater hazard to human health if not used properly.

That's the warning from Gary L. Smith, Extension safety specialist and agricultural engineering instructor at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Smith notes that old-fashioned concrete and masonry silos had enough porosity to allow poisonous silo gases to seep out slowly. Yellowish stains on older, much-used silos in rural areas around the country give proof of this phenomenon.

But modern airtight silos do not offer similar protection to human health, Smith points out. manufacturers are aware of this hazard, and they have provided blower fans and stenciled safety instructions which should be carefully followed.

Basic precautions are as follows:

—When filling upright silos, run the blower fan for 15 to 20 minutes before you enter the structure. Keep the blower running as long as someone is inside the silo.

—After a silo is filled, keep all persons and animals away for at least two weeks — preferably three weeks. Never open up a silo unless someone else is close enough to come to your rescue if necessary.

—Keep the door closed between your barn and silo room during the danger period to protect livestock from silo gas.

—Provide for natural ventilation during the danger period to carry away silo gas fumes. This includes keeping outside doors and windows open in your silo room. Remove chute doors in your silo to the level of the settled silage.

Be on the alert for bleach-like odors or yellowish brown fumes in or near your silo, the Maryland Extension safety specialist cautions. These are the telltale signs of nitrogen dioxide. the poisonous component of silo gas.

If you experience the slightest throat irritation or coughing in or around a silo, get to fresh air quickly, Smith warns. Only two or three breaths of silo gas can cause temporary loss of your sense of smell. This can lead to a false sense of security that the poisonous gas has gone away.

You can make your own test monitor for detecting silo gas by starting with a clean paper filter from the coffee-maker in your kitchen or the strainer in your milk room.

In a small clean dish, mis the following solution: ¼ teaspoon of liquid cornstarch; ⅓ teaspoon of potassium iodide (brown iodine - not red) and ⅓ cup (3 shot glasses of water).

Soak the paper disk in the liquid solution; then dry the disk in an oven at 100 to 125 degrees Fahrenheit. Fold Scotch tape over one edge of the disk and make a hole for hanging. Wet the disk with water and hang at the bottom of silo chute or inside the chamber of bottom-unloading silos. If the disk turns purple, silo gas is present. Once this chemical reaction occurs, the disk may not be reused.

Voracious appetites

What's at least one thing that dairy cows — particularly those big black and white ones — seem to have in common.

Well, according to several photos received in the Dairy Month Photo Contest, one common denominator seems to be their voracious appetites.

In fact, cows will go to all lengths and great heights to try to satisfy that appetite.

Here are just three photos from various parts of Pennsylvania to prove it.

In all three photos, the ravenous bovines climbed up onto wagons to get right into the middle of their dinner.

The frontal view of the cow, framed by heads on either side, was submitted by Linda G. Hetrick, of R1, Palmyra.

The side view of the wagon was sent in by John H. Hershey, 474 W. Newport Rd., Lititz. It was taken quite a few years ago, so cows haven't changed much in this one respect.

Waterfowl baiting unlawful

HARRISBURG — Hunters are reminded by the Game Commission that it is unlawful to take migratory game birds with the aid of bait; that is, placing corn, wheat, salt or other feed which constitutes a lure or enticement.

Hunters should be aware that an area is considered to remain baited for ten days after the bait is removed. It is not necessary for the hunter to know an area is or was baited to be in violation of the regulation.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Across the land, an army of combines is gobbling through millions of acres of grain-heavy corn and soybeans. Indeed, for much of the country, it promises to be a bin-bustin' yield, a harvest of blessed bounty, almost beyond belief.

And on countless family farms across the nation, another harvest possibility looms.

A harvest of bankruptcies.

A noted economist has predicted that the whole farm economy is tettering on the verge of disaster, rapidly approaching the bleak years of the "Great Depression."

Any farm wife who handles the family-business checking account doesn't need an economist to enlighten her on the state of farm finances. All she needs to do is try to balance the checkbook.

"I just about cry when I take the milk check to the bank," confided one friend during a recent sharing of economic woes.

While the government basically sets farm commodity prices, it then turns around and plays fast and loose with world market demands for our products.

We kitchen-table economists figure that Washington not only holds all the aces in the high stakes game of international commodity trading, they're also playing hands that make farmers come out looking like the jokers.

For instance, domestic meat producers and consumers alike labor under added costs of regulations and inspections at several levels of processing, 66 million pounds of recently imported boxed "beef" turned out to be kangaroo meat.

Needless to say, we kitchen-table economists getting hoppin' mad over that indignity.

When grain growers respond to pleas to plant fencerow to fencerow, ostensibly to feed the world, they instead fed the bank accounts of other nations who stepped in to fill the void created by the grain embargo, likely reselling some of the grain they'd purchased from our ports.

Again, recently, rather than sell butter at world market prices (about $1.10 per pound) to the Soviets, Washington whizzes instead gave it to New Zealand at the bargain-basement price of something over 70 cents per pound.

Guess where the Soviets will get their butter?

An added kicker was that New Zealand also can veto our butter sales to other world market buyers for a stretch of time.

Makes lots of sense, huh?

My naive kitchen-table-economy mind figures it would be better to sell our neighbors food on the world market, than to continue massive shipments of our advanced technologies, which they can in turn use as a threat in the escalating saber-shaking arms race.

Butter to the Soviets? Or massive farm bankruptcies?

Which would really do the most harm to this nation in the long run?

York Calcium Chips developed for poultry

YORK — A new source of supplemental calcium for laying flocks, "York Calcium Chips," are now being produced by York Stone & Supply Company for poultrymen throughout Pennsylvania and Maryland.

York Calcium Chips were developed as an economical replacement for oyster shells. Having a calcium level of 39 percent and a magnesium level of less than one percent, these soft limestone chips provide a slow release of calcium into the bloodstream as the eggshell is being formed.

Information released by the University of Maryland (Bulletin No. 377), Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station (Bulletin No. 291) and an analysis of multiple research papers by David A. Roland Sr., Auburn University, conclude that dietary calcium for eggshell formation may be equally effective when derived from high-quality limestone or standard oyster shells.

For the past year, York Stone & Supply Company has been conducting feeding trials with several commercial poultrymen to develop a product that mixes uniformly with the feed, is accepted by the laying flock and maintains eggshell quality equal to results being experienced with the supplemental feeding of oyster shells.

York Calcium Chips are the result of this work. As a secondary benefit, the larger "chips" remain in the gizzard of the birds and act as grit or "teeth" to increase the grinding action on more fiberous feedstuffs.

York Calcium Chips are available in bulk and 50-pound packages. For more information on York Calcium Chips, see your local feed supplier or contact York Stone & Supply Company, Roosevelt Avenue at Fahs Street, P.O. Box 1948, York, Pa. 17405.

Pa. barrow excels in nat'l test

AUSTIN, Minn. — Ed Brummer & Sons, Port Royal, placed high in the recent National Barrow Show Production Tested Barrow Contest.

Their barrow was put on test in the National Barrow Show Production Tested Contest at the National Barrow Show Test Station in New Ulm, Minn., on May 22. The test was completed September 4, and the barrows were evaluated at Geo. A. Hormel & Company's Austin, Minn., plant.

There were 804 barrows which started the test and 297 or 36 percent of the barrows finished the test meeting all of the requirements of average daily gain and carcass merit. Brummer's Poland China barrow met the requirements excelling in average daily gain and carcass merit. The carcass measurements on the barrow were: length, 29.6; fat depth 0.90; loin eye area 5.10.

The National Barrow Show is sponsored by Geo. A Hormel & Company, and the National Association of Swine Records.

Do healthy pig litters need Olympic-Star Sows?

YORK — According to scientists at the University of Georgia, exercise has little effect on reproductive performance in sows and gilts.

All females in the study were tethered during gestation; however, 1 group was forced to walk on a treadmill 15 minutes daily 5 days a week.

No differences were observed for birth weight, weaning weight or gestation length between the two groups. There was a tendency for exercised dams to have shorter farrowing times, although the difference was not statistically significant.

The study indicated that sows receiving no exercise can give birth to normal litters and producer sufficient milk to wean large healthy pigs.

Japanese poultry leaders visit Lancaster Co.

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER — "We have something very important in common," Lancaster County Commissioner James Huber told a group of representatives of the Japanese poultry industry in a visit to Lancaster County last week.

Speaking at a welcoming breakfast at the Holiday North, hosted by Hubbard Farms, of Lancaster, Huber paid tribute to the industriousness of the Japanese people.

"One of the greatest resources of Lancaster County," Huber explained, "is our industrious, hard-working people.

Commissioner Huber also explained the current efforts in Lancaster County to preserve farmland.

"This is a lesson we can learn from you, too," he said.

Commissioner Huber handed out Red Rose lapel stickers to the group of 14 visitors.

Also speaking at the breakfast were Robert H. Garland, manager, Hubbard Farms, Lancaster; and John Longenecker, of L and W Hatchery, Elizabethtown.

Longenecker introduced John Martin, general manager, and John Brubaker, hatchery manager, of the L and W staff.

After the breakfast, the group traveled to the L and W facility, where more than a half-million chicks are hatched weekly.

The group also paid a visit to Victor F. Weaver's plant in New Holland and the egg processing plant in the Greenfield Industrial Park.

A visit was also made to the Oregon Dairy Market.

Visiting leaders of the Japanese poultry industry gather outside Weaver's, New Holland, before touring chicken product processing facility. The group also visited Weaver's egg processing plant and the L & W Hatchery, Elizabethtown.

Get rats out of chicken house

NEWARK, Del. — Rats and mice make expensive guests in the poultry house. They spread disease, eat large amounts of feed, and waste feed by ripping open bags.

Rodents are starting to look for winter shelter, warns Delaware Extension poultry specialist George Chaloupka. Examine farm buildings for telltale signs: droppings; urine; smudge marks; tracks; runs; holes dug around the foundation; evidence of gnawing; nests; odors associated with rodents; and of course, actual sighting.

Do everything possible to rodent-proof your farm buildings before rats and mice establish themselves for the winter; once they are there, control is difficult.

Controlling rodents is a year-round job. Whether or not you've seen evidence of rodents, keep the farm cleared of junk to deny them comfortable living and breeding places. Seal all possible entrances to buildings, and cover windows and doors with sheet metal or close mesh wire to prevent gnawing.

Rats and mice don't require much of a hole to crawl through, Chaloupka points out. Place metal around places where pipes and wires enter a building. Don't forget that rats can enter through sewer lines, so place a metal grating at the end of the external drain.

If rodents are already present, chemicals such as the anticoagulants probably provide the most effective control. Read and follow directions carefully.

Although rats tend to avoid strange new objects, properly placed traps can help reduce the rodent population. Cats, too, can help in rodent control.

Remember, if cats are used, they should be fed for good condition; they should not leave the building; and they should be protected from poisons and traps. Cats should not have access to rodents that die from poisons.

If you happen to spot one or two rats around a poultry house but feel you don't yet have a problem, consider these facts from Shaver Poultry Breeding Farms:

Two rats will eat more than 50 pounds of feed per year and have the potential to contaminate and waste more than ten times this amount.

Rats have been known to kill several hundred baby chicks in one night. A group of hungry rats can injure or kill older birds as well.

Rodents carry 18 different kinds of lice, fleas and mites. They can transmit 35 diseases affecting humans and domestic animals.

Rat damage to poultry houses may be unobtrusive at first, but it is usually significant. Rats can undermine foundations and walls, destroy insulation, and chew electrical wiring and plastic pipes.

Rats average eight to ten young per litter and five or six litters per year. In one year, one pair of rats can produce from 50-70 offspring that will reach maturity and themselves bear young.

Usually for every rat you have seen, there are 10-12 more you haven't seen in the vicinity.

Considering these facts, the effort it takes to rodent-proof farm buildings is a small price to pay, Chaloupka concludes.

Commonwealth — tops ag lending

HARRISBURG — Commonwealth National Bank, according to statistics compiled and recently released by the American Bankers Association (ABA), ranks as the leading bank in Pennsylvania for agricultural loans for the year 1980. This is the sixth consecutive year that Commonwealth National has topped the list.

On a nationwide basis, Commonwealth National Bank now ranks 26th among the top 100 banks in agricultural loans. In previously released figures, Commonwealth National Bank ranked 27th nationally in 1979, 31st in 1978 and 45th place in 1977 in terms of total agricultural loans.

The ABA report shows agricultural loans at Commonwealth National Bank totaled $62,874,000 as of Dec. 31, 1980. This total includes loans made directly through the bank as well as through its wholly-owned subsidiary, Commonwealth National Agri-Loan Corp. The 1980 total is a 7.2 per cent increase over the Dec. 31, 1979, figure of $58,678,000.

Commonwealth National Agri-Loan Crop. was formed in 1970, when the bank had $11,486,000 in total agricultural loans.

The announcement was made by Robert P. Bucher of Lancaster, president of the subsidiary and vice president and manager of the bank's Agri-Loan Department.

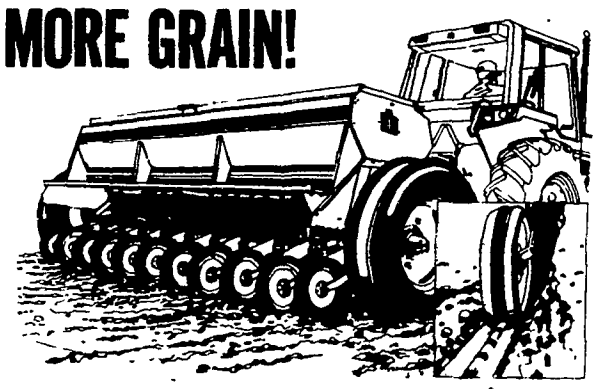
Outstanding accuracy begins with IH feed cups that deliver seed uniformly. Dual rib press wheels then compact the soil around the seed, and gently "pat" the top to prevent air holes. Result: uniform germination and emergence, a start toward higher yields.



The Key To Faster Emergence Is This IH Dual Rib Press Wheel

KRAUSE

BEFORE YOU BUY A DISC HARROW
COMPARE A KRAUSE
Krause is unequalled

KRAUSE

COMPARE QUALITY:

TIE RODS AND SPOOLS

Alloy steel tie rods are 1¾" in diameter on heavy duty units (1½" on medium duty). There's a nut on both ends for easy servicing. Krause spools are ductile iron and weigh 20-30 lbs. each. Precision machined with large diameter bells to fit snug against disc blade. SPOOLS ARE KRAUSE MADE.

COMPARE DESIGN:

FRAMES

Engineered of super strength steel tubing with cross braces and gussets at major stress points.

WING HINGES

Krause uses big 1¾" diameter bolts on HD units (1½" on medium duty) with over 10" of wear surface area.

COMPARE PERFORMANCE: "ROCKFLEX" BEARING ARMS

Krause invented the Rockflex" arm in 1965. This C-shaped arm flexes over obstacles. It helps protect disc blades and spools from breakage.

We have over 300 rock-flex discs in the fields of PA, MD, NJ and DE. These Krause owners continue to prove daily that the Krause disc levels and cuts better than any other disc they've ever owned.

COMPARE PRICE: $ PER lb. KRAUSE DISC HARROWS ARE CHEAPER THAN THE MAJORS

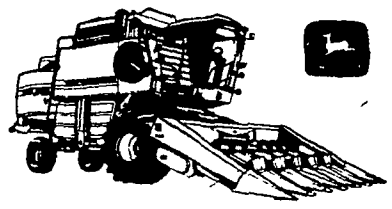
Boost speed and grain savings on slopes to 18 percent with a John Deere SideHill 6620



On slopes as steep as 18 percent, the John Deere SideHill 6620 Combine eliminates the need to slow down to prevent crop loss Automatic separator leveling from feeder house through cleaning shoe lets you make full use of combine productivity. The Powr-Mizer Forage Harvesters — the capacity you've wanted with the horsepower you already have Squeeze extra work out of your tractor with the power-stingy 3940 and 3960 Forage Harvesters. Power-efficient features start with the 36- or 48-knife Dura-Drum™ cutterheads. These extra knives shear your crop into a fine-cut, uniform forage. And you can keep the knives cutting at peak performance with the quick-adjust stationary knife. Easy-access design lets you save your back and your temper, since there's no stooping and no shield removal. It only takes a wrench and less than 3 minutes to get an accurate adjustment.

Power efficiency continues with a special 2-speed blower. One speed lets you power through tough crops, like haylage, while the slower setting conserves energy on easy-to-blow crops.

Come by and see all the Powr-Mizer features on the 3940 and 3960 Forage Harvesters.

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite. Below are some of the properties of Gunite:

1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration.

Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite.

Wheeling Channeldrain

hot-dip aluminum-zinc alloy coating delivers twice the life of galvanized... at no extra cost...with a 20-year warranty.

Farm building professionals agree: Wheeling Channeldrain roofing and siding panels give you a dollar-tight, weather-tight building.

- Extra-wide 38" panels mean fewer panels and fasteners, save material costs.
- Patented drain channels run water off.
- Wide panel overlaps assure leak-proof joints.

Unpainted or prepainted, Galvalume looks great.

Galvalume fights coorosion with a vengeance.

Excellent reflectivity to heat

In comparison tests, Galvalume sheet steel was found to have heat reflectivity equivalent to aluminum-coated, type 2. And both proved superior to galvanized.

Warranted for 20 years

More good news: when specified as roofing or siding, Galvalume is warranted, under exposure to normal atmospheric conditions, for a period of twenty years against rupture, perforation, or structural failure.

The price is right

All told, Galvalume delivers unbeatable quality and performance...at an unbeatable price.

Bankert shows supreme barrow at Gratz

BY SHEILA MILLER

GRATZ — A Hampshire barrow walked off with the Supreme Championship at last Wednesday's 4-H and Open Swine shows here at the fairgrounds. The overall winner was the entry of York County's Mike Bankert.

The Reserve Supreme Champion honor went to a Spotted barrow shown by Kevin Brown of Klingerstown, Northumberland County.

Twenty-one-year-old Brown also exhibited several breeding champs, including the champion and reserve champion Duroc sows, champion Yorkshire boar and champion Spotted boar.

Brown, a graduate of Line Mountain High School, has been showing swine for the past 10 years, both in 4-H and FFA. He is currently working with his parents, Harvey and Delphine, and brothers, Kyle and Kurt on their 100 sow Duroc, Spotted, and Yorkshire operation.

The Brown farm was formerly a dairy operation, however, Delphine explains, "we just got tired of being tied down seven days a week."

This week Kevin exhibited his hogs at the Bloomsburg Fair for the first time.

Goats grace Gratz Fair

GRATZ — The bleating cries of goats echoed through the livestock barn at last week's Gratz Fair. Pens filled with the curious creatures represented almost every breed — Alpines, Nubians, Saanens, and Toggenburgs.

Susan Shultz, 14, exhibited the grand champion Nubian doe, while April Lafferty, 14, had the reserve grand champion Nubian.

Roberta Molaro, Dornsife, exhibited the reserve grand, front, and grand champion Alpine goats at last week's Gratz Fair goat show.

Kyle Brown, 14, left, showed the champion Dorset ram while brother Kurt, 12, had the champion Dorset ewe entry.

Molara's champion and reserve champion both bear the prefix Someday Hill. The champion is Someday Hill Marks Bellenda and the reserve champ is Someday Hill Marks Anabell. "They're a couple of ding-dongs," laughs Molara, adding their mother's name is Tinkerbell.

When asked why the prefix Someday Hill, Molara smiles and recalls that when the family was living on Long Island the kids would ask when they would be able to live on a farm. The answer, she said, was always "someday".

The Toggenburg grand champion was Spruceup Bittersweet, the 2-year-old entry of Truman, Dolly, and Duane Peifer, R1 Herndon. They also exhibited the junior champion, 6-month-old Spruceup Misty Dawn.

Eastern sheep workshop coming Oct. 17

WESTMINSTER, Md. — The Eastern Sheep Production Workshop will be held here at the Carroll County Agriculture Center on Saturday, Oct. 17. This workshop, designed for beginners and experienced producers alike, is being sponsored by the Maryland Sheep Breeders' Assoc.

The session begins at 10 a.m. with a two-hour hands-on clinic looking at sheep health problems, such as proper hoof trimming and foot rot treatment and demonstrations of worming methods and parasite control. University of Maryland's Emory Leffel and Rick Lund, a professional shepherd from Great Britain, will lead this session. Additional management procedures that will be covered include injection methods, docking, castration, and mouthing sheep for age and soundness.

In the afternoon, George Ahlschwede, sheep judge and producer, will speak on "Opportunities with Sheep" by increasing the productivity of ewes and marketing techniques. Doug Hogue of Cornell University will discuss year-round lambing methods and other management techniques.

Iowa State's Tom Wickersham will point out the advantages of raising sheep versus corn. The type of lambs packing plants are looking for will be pointed out by Maryland packer Fred Stapf. And American Lamb Council Director of Merchandising Bill Blake will demonstrate how to cut and cook a leg of lamb.

The afternoon sessions run until 5:30 with a break at 2 p.m. for attendees to view the various displays of sheep supplies and equipment at the Ag Center.

York crowns Pork King

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

YORK — "The chop has always been my favorite cut of pork," asserts York County's newly-crowned Pork Cookoff King Ron Thoman. "And I think the rib chop has a better flavor than the loin chop."

Thoman, of 530 Fulton Street, Hanover, earned the Pork King title during a grill-off held as the final event in the York Fair's small livestock exhibition arena. York County Pork Producers sponsored the local competition as part of their ongoing commodity promotion activities.

Contestants were scored on their pork cut selection and the excellence in preparation of the meat, as well as its overall appeal, and the appearance and presentation of the entree'.

Showmanship points also carry weight, since contest cooks are scored on their "chefing ability," their personal apparel and appearance, neatness of their cooking area and the overall appearance of the table set with its feast.

Total menus and side dishes are even taken into consideration, with contestants asked to incorporate as many Pennsylvania-produced commodities as possible in their finished dinner.

Thoman's "Marinated Pork Chops" garned the highest number of points, along with his colorfully-appointed table complete with floral bouquet and a taste-tempting menu.

"I like Russian salad dressing," Thoman says of his choice of a base for the delicious marinade-sauce that flavored his half-inch rib chops. So, beginning with the Russian dressing idea, Thomas experimented for about six weeks, cooking the chops several times for his family while honing the fine points of the final product.

Along with the grilled chops, Thoman served a baked potato, three-bean salad, a tossed salad, cherry pie, and a Pennsylvania cherry wine.

As the county winner, Thoman will now compete in the state cookoff, scheduled during the October Apple Harvest Festival in Adams County.

Judges for the cook-off were Pat Dobrosky, Glenn Rock R2, Sara Eisenhart, Thomasville, and former county and state cookoff winner Joe Sheffer, Airville.

Want to try those winning chops? Here's Ron Thoman's recipe:

Marinated Pork Chops

6 to 8 fresh loin or rib chops
½ cup ketchup
½ cup Russian dressing
1 package dried onion soup
2 tablespoons white vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcheshire sauce
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon honey
¼ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon ginger

Combine all ingredients and coat meat completely. Pour remaining sauce over chops that are in a single layer in the bottom of a dish. Marinate overnight. Grill about a half-hour, or until tender, brushing with remaining sauce.

Delicious! That was the pronouncement of those who sampled Ron Thoman's winning entry in the York County Pork King Cookoff contest, staged last Saturday at the York Fair's livestock arena. After a morning of heated cooking competition, Thoman sat down to partake of the blue-ribbon "Marinated Pork-Chops."

Your beef cattle could gain up to 10 percent more weight...and gain it faster...on the same amount of feed corn, if that feed corn is a waxy variety from CFS.

Waxy corn, with its higher digestability, is the more efficient feed grain for today's cost-conscious livestock raiser. And, with CFS Waxy hybrids, you don't have to "give up" high yields—they match or exceed the yields of comparable dent varieties. Call your CFS dealer today for full information.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Let them eat meat

As the world rushes toward overpopulation and eventual starvation, a lot of pressure is being generated to drastically change or even eliminate animal agriculture.

The thought behind this is that animals are inefficient users of protein. And instead of pushing a lot of feed grain through steers, pigs and chickens, we should grow food crops that can be consumed directly by people.

We may come to that eventually — before we starve, we'll make many changes in our eating habits — but don't expect Americans to stop eating meat any time soon. In fact, don't expect them to stop until they are forced by price, scarcity or some other overwhelming factor. Consumers won't stop eating meat out of a feeling of guilt or of compassion for hungry people in other lands.

Let's face it — most of us like meat and we're not about to survive on soybeans and granola while we still have all the other vestiges of the good life. And long as we pay such a small chunk of the weekly paycheck for meat, we'll keep on buying.

As you look at some other countries — notably Japan, you realize how much people are willing to pay for the kinds of food they enjoy. It will take more than a long-range, loosely defined world need to cause any noticeable shifting from meat to plant products.

There's another side to the story, that of the producer. A substantial number of American farmers raise meat animals as part of their operations. To suddenly stop producing them would be economic disaster for those farmers.

You see, American farmers already grow much more grain than we use in this country. Until recent years, it's been very difficult to get rid of this excess. To stop producing meat animals would increase the supply of grain available without a corresponding demand and that would wreck prices.

People who are asking for such a shift really don't understand this or maybe don't even care. They simply look at the world population figures and moralize about animal agriculture.

Another factor that I don't think is being considered is how much of America's farmland is totally unsuited to crop production. Millions of acres in the West can't be irrigated, will never be irrigated, and consequently will never support crop production. Vast areas in the East won't support crop production. This land is either too steep or too wet or too rough or for some other reason can't be cultivated.

Granted there are a lot more acres that could be growing food and feed crops. There are also millions of acres that will never be tilled but that are quite capable of supporting livestock.

Visiting a farm in Pennsylvania recently, I was reminded of the place of animal agriculture. Even though the fellow farms more than 500 acres, he tills no more than a couple of hundred. The rest is pasture, woods, steep valleys and other wasteland that can't be effectively farmed.

Soil erosion is a constant threat on virtually every acre and must be dealt with constantly. Open fields are broken up into strips of corn, soybeans, alfalfa and grassland. Crops are rotated to help prevent erosion, and no-till planting is the rule on most acres. Even with all of the technology that's available, soil washes away and must be continually repaired.

To ask this farmer to sell his livestock and grow food crops would be stupid. Through careful management he grows all the crops he can, which he then feeds to his livestock. He plans for enough livestock to utilize the grassland. If he runs short he can

Soviet grain crop continues to deteriorate

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Projections for the Soviet grain crop continue on their downward trend, reports USDA.

Planned at 236 million metric tons, once projected at 200-210 million tons, and seen at 185 million tons just a month ago, it is now projected at 180 million tons.

These figures are down 25 percent from plan, 15 percent below the original projection, 3 percent below last month's estimate and 5 percent below last year's 189 million ton output.

According to USDA, this marks the third straight year of poor grain output for the Soviets. While they produced a record 237 million tons of grain in 1978, output fell to 179 million tons in 1979 and then to 189 million last year. They cite the current problems as the result of continued hot, dry weather that has plagued this crop since early July.

The Soviet wheat output is now seen at 93 million tons, down from last year's 98 million ton total but above the 90 million tons produced in 1979. Coarse grain production is now seen at 77 million tons, down from 1980's 80.7 million ton output and the lowest since 1975.

Back in 1978, the Soviet Union produced a record 121 million metric tons of wheat from 63 million harvested hectares — averaging a record 1.92 metric tons per hectare. This year's 93 million metric tons from 61 million harvested hectares reflects the lowest yield since 1977 — an average of 1.52 metric tons per hectare.

In comparison, this year's U.S. wheat production is seen at 74.8 million metric tons from a record 32.7 million hectares. Yield per acre is seen at 2.29 metric tons — 50 percent more per hectare that the Soviets.

In 1976, Soviet production of coarse grains (rye, barley, oats, corn, sorghum and millet(totaled a record 115 million tons that was produced from 61 million harvested hectares. Yield per hectare averaged a record 1.89 tons. This year, production of coarse grains by the Soviets is seen at 77 million tons from 54 million harvested hectares. Yield per hectare is seen at 1.43 tons.

In the U.S., corn production, alone, is seen at 201.7 million tons from 30 million harvested hectares. Yield is seen at 6.72 tons per hectare — 4 times the Soviet coarse grain average.

Overall, Soviet grain production is projected at 180 million tons from 123 million hectares. U.S. grain output is projected at 324.4 million tons from 77.3 million hectares. U.S. farmers will produce 1.8 times as much grain as the Soviet farmers on 38 percent less land.

easily buy feed, but none of the roughage that grows on his hilly acres is wasted for want of a cow to eat it.

That farm is not suited to all-out crop production and never will be, but it's a darn good livestock farm. There are many farms like that in almost every state. Any sort of national policy aimed at converting them to crop farms would be a mistake.

Likewise, any effort on the part of concerned citizens to pressure livestock farmers would be ill-advised. It would be far better to let farmers figure out for themselves what their farms are best suited for.

Exclusive SOLID STATE 4-Way Steering

Flick...Flick...Flick! As easily as you'd operate a light switch you can switch on-the-go from front to rear to coordinated to crab steering. When you switch to front steer, rear wheels center automatically.

Uni-Loader . . .

Uni-Loader design eliminates pedal controls. Helps dairymen get their scraping, lifting, dumping and other backbreaking chores done faster and easier, without unnecessary "steps" to coordinate foot and hand movements. Two hand levers control everything — power, speed, direction, loader and bucket functions.

Other productive advantages include hydrostatic 4-wheel drive for smooth going with infinitely variable control. 360° turn capability for getting in and out of pens, out-buildings and other tight spots with ease. Quick parts and service — with dealer access to the Case nationwide network of computer-linked parts depots.

See your nearby Case dealer for the Uni-Loader to suit your needs. Available in 16, 30 and 45 hp models with lift capacities up to 1700 lbs.

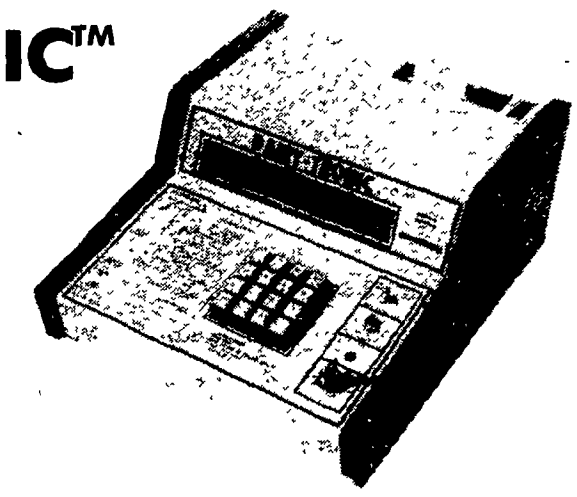
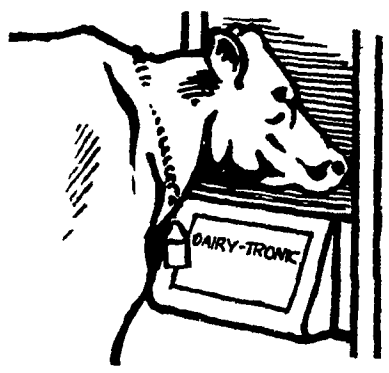
DAIRY-TRONIC™
COMPUTERIZED DAIRY FEEDING SYSTEMS
Simple - Precise Dependable - Inexpensive





Increases Milk Production - Saves Feed

With an I.D. tag on each cow, and a highly accurate scanner located in each feeder the computer is able to exactly identify and control the amount of feed each cow can have, based on her milk production.

The DAIRY-TRONIC SYSTEM costs less - prices include computer, ID tags and feeders.

Number of Cows	30	60	125	250
Dairy-Tronic System Cost	$6,637	$8,684	$12,878	$21,166
Five year monthly lease payment	$160	$210	$311	$511

The DAIRY-TRONIC SYSTEM increases cash flow by increasing production and reducing feed costs

* Projected increase @ $153 per cow per year	$4,590	$9,180	$19,125	$38,250
Annual lease payments	$1,923	$2,520	$3,732	$6,132
Extra Cash Flow/year	$2,667	$6,660	$15,393	$32,118

* Based on University of Missouri figures from "Feeding according to production", and saving only one pound of feed and gaining only 3 pounds of milk per cow per day on a herd average.

DAIRY-TRONIC SYSTEM Features that make a difference:

1. Simple to use and operate, computer tells you how to program step by step.
2. Automatically feeds each cow individually the exact programmed ration based on her milk production.
3. Dairyman can change individual cow's ration with just a push of a button at any time.
4. Feeders can handle high moisture, shelled or ear corn, complete feed, or concentrate.
5. Special feeders can meter out four different rations in various amounts totally independent of each other.
6. The computer automatically prints out the following information every 24 hours or anytime desired. It shows date, time, and the following individual cow information: cow number, amount programmed, amount of feed consumed and the monthly total to date. Plus, the herd daily and monthly totals to date.
7. An * shows cow didn't eat full amount of programmed indicating possible sickness developing or cow coming in heat.
8. Computer can be programmed for 1, 2, or 4 cycles per/day. Example: on 4 cycles a cow programmed for 20 lbs. of feed will get 5 lbs. every 6 hrs. It automatically carries any left over rations into the next cycle.
9. Has a battery system with re-charging unit for back-up power to keep memory stored in event of a power failure.
10. Just pushing a few buttons will check, display (and print on tape if desired) each bins activity, a cows record, the computers, memory, and other information.
11. Priced lower than any other comparable computerized feeding system on the market.
12. Simplified keyboard provides for ease of operation and allows programs for future — such as, data storage, milk monitoring and etc.
13. Large black numbers are etched on yellow tags that can be used with chains or ropes.
14. A Dairy-Tronic unit can operate up to 15 feeders positioned at a maximum distance of one mile from computer.
15. Option: galvanized or stainless steel feeders.
16. Foolproof cow identification tag can receive and transmit an electronic signal up to 4 inches from the sensor; therefore, contact is unnecessary. No magnets or lights are used. Signal is unaffected by excessive light, manure or dirt coating, etc.

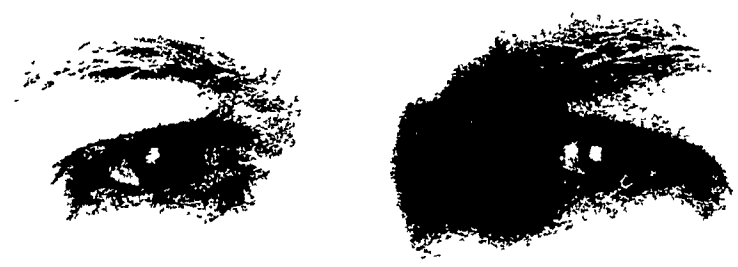
Delivering A.I. quality, a study in scrutiny.



You probably already know we offer the world's best genetics, but did you also know we assure the highest quality semen attainable?

It takes more than just sophisticated machines and liquid nitrogen to process high quality, fertile semen that can get the job done . . . it takes watchful eyes from collection right on thru insemination. Trained eyes of veterinarians, quality control specialists, plus packaging and freezing technicians that carefully examine, inspect and scrutinize every single unit of semen to assure you the highest quality possible. In fact, our watchful eyes even go to the extreme of determining the precise number of live sperm after thawing with a photo-motility check; an extra step no other organization bothers to take.

So, the next time you use A.I. in your operation, remember the hundreds of watchful eyes at ABS that can deliver you A.I. quality.

The Stresses of Fall

At this time of the year, there are a number of things that can stress cows and throw them into a tither.

I was reminded of this fact by a number of phone calls I received in recent weeks concerning herd health problems. There were a number of possibilities for these problems, and I share some of these thoughts with you in the following paragraphs.

In late summer, many of our streams and summer pastures dried up. Stagnant water accummulated in our streams and ponds and the concentration of algae and pollutants increased. Normally these problems would not exist, or it would have been diluted out by increased rates of water flow. Some of the algaes produce toxins which can affect cattle. Thus, it is advisable that cattle not be allowed to consume stagnant water, and water troughs should be cleaned regularly.

When pastures dry up, about all that thrives is weeds, some of which may be poisonous. Normally, these poisonous weeds pose no problem to cattle as long as they have a handy supply of other good feed to eat. Cattle usually avoid these poisonous weeds, probably because of their undesirable flavor and odors. What few weeds they may consume are diluted out by good feed.

However, when cows are in the "back forty" for an extended period of time, and no other feed is conveniently available, they may relish the opportunity to browse on anything that is handy — even poisonous weeds. We, therefore, should attempt to eliminate these hazards from our pastures by frequent clipping and with the proper use of herbicides. Observe what weed problems exist now, and make a vow to do something about them next year.

Changing Feeds

For many cows, this time of the year is a time of drastic and sudden changes in the feeding program. We are switching from one kind of forage to another. Sometimes these changes are rather frequent during the harvest season. During this time, cows are sometimes forced to consume hot, uncured silages, and some may be exposed to breathing toxic silo gases.

It is always desirable to have a supply of forage to feed from while silos are being filled and silage is curing. This is not always possible, but it is worth striving for.

To keep the ration balanced during these periods of changes, it is necessary to do some forage testing and feed programming. This takes some forward planning. It usually invovles sampling some forages at harvest time, and re-testing them at a later date.

Confining Cows For Winter

We are into the season of rapidly changing weather. It's a time of the year when barn ventilation is critical. Ventilation systems need to be able to adjust to rapidly changing weather conditions and they need to provide cattle with fresh air without creating drafts. Or, buildings need to be designed in such a way so they have plenty of fresh air. In other cases, cattle can be given the freedom to select their own comfort zone; this is one of the big advantages of a well-placed, well-maintained calf hutch.

Speaking of calf hutches, what provisions do you have for calves when they come out of hutches? It should be cold housing, with lots of fresh air, and pens for small groups of about 4 heifers.

Ideally, the pens for smaller heifers should be away from, or up wind from, older heifers and cows. Frequently, these young calves have not developed enough immunity to fight off disease organisms from the older stock in the herd, ideally, they should not be breathing the same air.

It is always good to work closely with your local veterinarian to discuss and develop immunization programs that are applicable to your specific needs.

If you do not have adequate facilities to accommodate calves coming out of hutches, an alternative approach might be to start your calves indoors this fall and save the hutches for late winter calves. The disease organism load in the barn should be at its lowest level at this time of the year.

Calves started indoors now, could be kept inside all winter and allowed to develop an immunity to whatever organisms exist. As the winter progresses, and the organism levels build up, start the calves outside in the hutches, and let them there until spring. By then, they'll probably be big enough to carry the hutch away, but at least you haven't stressed them by exposing them at a young age to warm housing and disease organisms that are common to the herd.

As we bring cows indoors for the winter, we are also subjecting them to more concrete stress. Thus, it is desirable to keep stalls well maintained and as comfortable as possible. Exercise, particularly on an earthen lot, can also help relieve some of the stress.

Remember, cows are creatures of habit. They like to be comfortable, and they have to be healthy to produce well. With all these changes and stresses we subject cows to, it is any wonder that cows "act up", go off feed and off milk? Our challenge is to keep these to a minimum. Pamper your cows, and they'll probably pamper you in return.

Md. beekeepers cooperate in nat'l survey

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland beekeepers are cooperating in a national "Honey Bee Mite Survey."

According to I. Barton Smith, Jr., supervisor of the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Apiary Inspection program, 100 of the state's 2,300 apiaries will be surveyed with at least four from each county.

Nationally, according to Smith, some 8,250 samples will be collected in the program being coordinated by the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service of USDA which is carrying out the effort at the request of state apiary inspectors and numerous beekeeper associations.

Reason for the survey is concern over the "Acarine mite" which has been detected in Northern Mexico within 150 miles of the Texas border. European customers who buy honey and package bees from the U.S. are concerned over possibilities of the pest becoming established in the U.S.

The European and Canadian market for honeybees from the entire U.S. were hurt in 1979 when the "Varroa mite", a major pest of bees in Europe, was purportedly detected in Maryland. So concerned were Maryland beekeepers over this threat that all colonies of bees within a two mile radius of College Park were destroyed, a safeguard against the suspected mite infestation.

All samples collected in the national mite survey will be analyzed at the USDA's bee laboratory in Beltsville. A sample consists of 100 bees from a selected apiary. They are placed in an alcohol solution to preserve them until they are examined. Results of the national survey are expected to be known sometime in 1982.

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Judith Anne Harding, a freshman at Pennsylvania State University, has been named the 1981 winner of the $1,000 United Dairy Industry Association Employee Scholarship. Runners-up who receive $500 awards are Sara Ann Barlass, a student at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, and Eric Knutsen, who attends Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

The three winners were selected from a record 49 high school seniors who applied for the scholarships. The annual awards, presented to students entering college to pursue a degree in marketing dairy products, are funded by voluntary contributions from employees of UDIA and its family of organizations, which includes American Dairy Association, Dairy Research Inc. and National Dairy Council.

UDIA is the national promotional organization for U.S.-produced milk and milk products, funded by dairy producers, processors/handlers and equipment/supply manufacturers. Besides UDIA employees, UDIA member organization managers and ADA's advertising agency, D'Arcy-MacManus and Masius, joined in the 1981 effort.

The scholarship was presented for the sixth year at the Dairy Shrine Club annual awards banquet at the World Dairy Expo on October 1. This is the first time that three awards have been presented; only one $1,000 award has been given in the past. The scholarship is administered by the Dairy Shrine Club, with winners selected by an anonymous committee appointed by Dairy Shrine representatives.

Judith Harding, Brookfield, Pennsylvania, this year's $1,000 award winner, graduated second in her high school class, is a member of the National Honor Society and immediate past president of her high school's student council. She also has served as secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association and was a member of her county 4-H dairy cattle judging team.

Harding's long-range plan is to join her two older brothers in managing the family's 150-head Guernsey farm and retail dairy store following graduation from Penn State. She is studying agricultural business management, dairy production and marketing.

Sara Ann Barlass, Janesville, Wisconsin, also a member of the National Honor Society, was president of her high school's senior class. Active in sports and other extra-curricular activities, she found time for an outstanding 4-H career with registered Jersey cattle. She is majoring in both agricultural journalism and dairy science in her first year at the University of Wisconsin and will pursue a career "explaining the facts and figures of milk marketing to consumers and dairymen alike."

Eric Knutsen, Rising Sun, Maryland, another member of the National Honor Society, graduated sixth in his class.

LMA want Packers & Stockyards public hearing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The Board of Directors of Livestock Marketing Association voted unanimously here recently to ask for public hearings on the Packers and Stockyards Administration's internal review of P&S Act regulations and policy statements.

In a petition to U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary John R. Block, LMA's law firm noted that the P&S review "Task Force" was composed solely of P&S employees and two attorneys from the USDA Office of General Council.

The petition is critical of the lack of industry representation on the Task Force. "Very few" of the persons who took part in 1980's 238.5 million livestock transactions in the U.S. "have had any way to present their views" to the internal Task Force, the petition said.

Because this present review "will have a significant impact on the entire livestock industry of this country," LMA wants nationwide public hearings "so that those persons who will be affected by the regulations" can offer their views, the petition said.

LMA's petition also said there has been "little progress made, and few tangible results" since P&S began reviewing current regulations and policy statements in December, 1979. That review was begun in response to federal law and a presidential executive order, LMA officials pointed out.

The review of over 130 regulations has resulted in "minor, cosmetic changes" in four of them in 21 months, the petition said.

LMA President Lemmy Wilson, speaking to the Directors at their Sept. 18 meeting, said he was "amazed" when he learned that no one from any sector of the livestock industry had been asked to contribute their knowledge and experience to the Task Force's deliberations.

In spite of this, the Task Force's 82-page report has been given wide circulation throughout the entire livestock industry and to state government officials, LMA officials said.

Members of the Task Force were Harold Davis, chief of P&S's marketing practices branch; Kenneth Stricklin, chief of the livestock procurement branch; regional supervisors Griffin Bonham of Omaha, C. DeWayne Crawford of Indianapolis and T.C. Harris of Bedford, Va., and from the USDA Office of General Counsel, Attorneys Thomas M. Walsh and Kenneth H. Vail.

Hearings to allow the livestock industry to comment on the report are crucial, the petition said, since the report "will undoubtedly be used as the basic guidelines for the P&S's revised review of the P&S regulations." This revised review is scheduled to be completed by the close of fiscal 1983, according to P&S officials.

"Meaningful, substantive" comments from the livestock industry are needed "so that review can proceed to completion," the petition said.

Stream protection seminars climax Oct. 8

Plot results can improve hybrid selection

DEKALB, Ill. — You've walked your fields and viewed hybrid demonstration plots. Now, you are preparing to harvest your crop.

Before you're done, you'll begin receiving reports of hybrid performance from seed companies and others. How do you improve your farming profits by basing seed purchases on demonstration plot results?

Demonstration plots are generally fairly large with a single machine-planted, machine-harvested strip representing each hybrid. They usually are not replicated. The first thing to remember about the results is that each reflects the influence of the high number of variables:

Was the field uniformly tilled?

Was even application of plowdown fertilizers, nitrogen and pesticides achieved? Was weed control equally good across the entire plot area?

Was a check hybrid used?

Are harvest populations equivalent and is plant spacing similar for all hybrids? Are hybrids of the same maturity being compared?

Was the combine adjusted to do a better job of harvesting one hybrid than another?

This list could go on and on. However, the point is that a single demonstration plot is not reliable enough to give you the information needed to make hybrid buying decisions. Even a single research plot with replications, randomization and statistical tests for validity should not be the only basis for hybrid selection.

Seek records for a two-year period (or longer) from several locations that represent farming practices, soil types, and climate similar to your farm.

When reviewing such data, consider how hybrids compared head-to-head in each plot for each year as well as the multi-year average for yield and moisture. The average yield for two hybrids may not differ much, but one may have outyielded the other 15 or more times out of 20. Thus, you may be choosing between a consistent performer and a "boom or bust" hybrid that's occasionally outstanding, but often disappointing.

In selecting hybrids, search for top performers in two and preferably, three maturities. Try listing hybrids from lowest to highest grain moisture. Then look for the best performers in each different maturity group.

Plots require a lot of effort to plant, harvest and publish results. Interpreting the results also requires considerable effort if they are to be meaningful. Many multi-million dollar decisions are based in part on demonstration plot results.

What causes nipple necrosis?

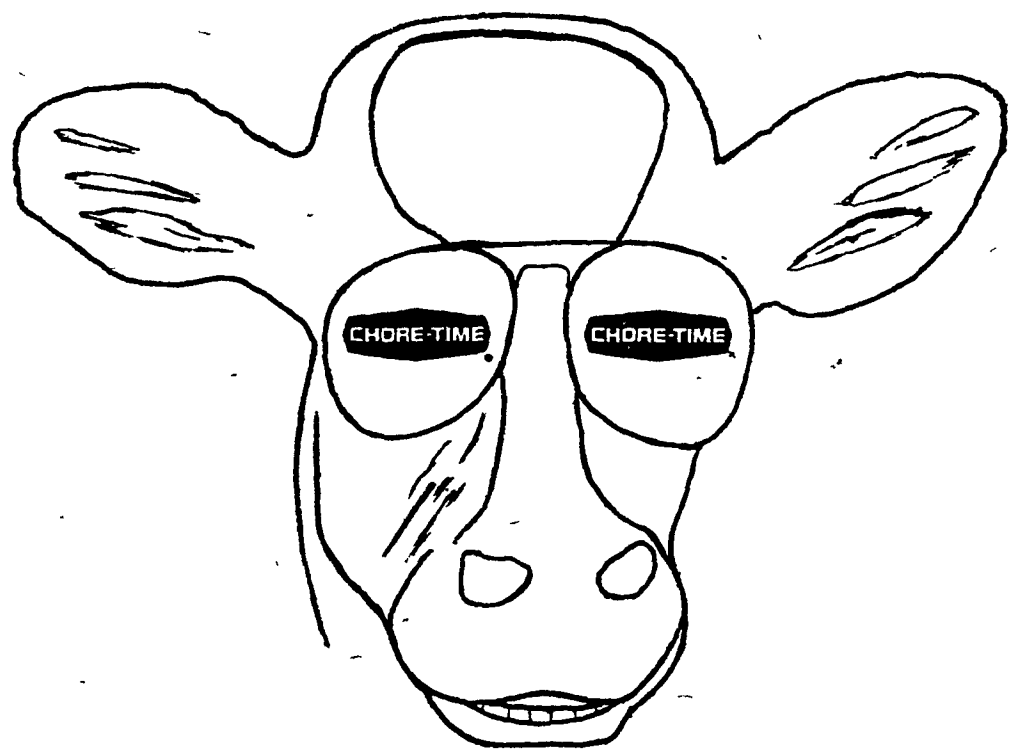
YORK — Nipple necrosis, the scabby formation sometimes seen on the nipples of newborn pigs, was recently investigated by researchers at Washington State University. The study was conducted to determine if the incidence of nipple necrosis was affected by alfalfa in the diet and floor type.

Beginning on day 80 of gestation, special diets were fed containing either 0 or 50 percent alfalfa. Sows farrowed in crates containing one of three floor types: concrete slats, flattened expanded metal with wooden center sections, or steel slats with wooden center sections.

there were about 8 percent more pigs having necrotic nipples among those from sows fed no alfalfa. Also, concrete slats led to necrotic nipples in 20.7 percent of the pigs (about 10 percent more than with the expanded metal floor).

The scientists also found that pigs with swollen or necrotic nipples generally had higher levels of circulating estrogen. This corresponded to higher levels of estrogen in the blood of sows receiving no alfalfa.

THIS VEALER HAS VISIONS OF THE BEST VENTILATION SYSTEM FOR HIS REQUIREMENTS



1 Proper Air Flow
2 Humidity Control
3 Protection for Noxious Gas Buildup
4 Better Comfort
5 Faster Gains
6 Excellent Feed Conversion

The Air System with A Mind Of Its Own

Until now, most ventilation systems had one drawback. Air inlets had to be opened and closed by hand.

This was time consuming — and pretty much a matter of guesswork.

Now, Chore-Time has eliminated this problem.

The Chore-Time system has a mind of its own and adjusts inlets — in conjunction with fan operation — to maintain air pressure at a constant, preset level.

This provides a degree of air and moisture accuracy never before possible in poultry and livestock buildings.

The new inlet control is just one of many exclusive features that make Chore-Time air systems number one in performance and reliability.

At Oley Valley Fair

Hauseman takes grand Brown Swiss honors for third year

BY LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

OLEY — The 35th annual Oley Valley Fair, held last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was greeted by the usual rainfall which seems to accompany the fair. But by the time the livestock judging ended Thursday afternoon, the sun was out, if only in short spells.

Coming out on top in dairy showing was Gary Hauseman, 16 of Boyertown. Hauseman took Grand Champion Brown Swiss honors for the third year in a row with his five year old DM Design Itch sired by Rancho Rustic My-Design.

This junior at Oley Valley High School also was named best showman and fitter during the show. He is presently serving as chapter FFA President at Oley Valley and also holds the president's office for Eastern Berks 4-H Club. The son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hauseman, Gary has been showing in 4-H for the past eight years.

The Hausemans farm 250 acres and are milking about 50 cows, consisting of 25 Holstein and the remainder being Brown Swiss under the name Jan-Da Farm. Gary noted that they are working towards an all-Brown Swiss herd. The Brown Swiss are more contented, he says, and above that, this dairyman says he just likes them better.

Hauseman was not concerned about a probable decrease in milk production either. "The butterfat will make it up," he added in an unconcerned tone.

Showing the youngest animal in Brown Swiss show and placing first in the Intermediate Calf class was Mike Spayd, Fleetwood. Tom Galloway of Bechtelsville followed suit by showing his junior yearling to a blue ribbon in that class. Next Robert Russell, Boyertown took a red ribbon, behind one of Gary Hauseman's two year olds of Jan-Da Farm.

The Hauseman's of Jan-Da farm also had the third and fourth placings of the 2 Year-Old class. Gary showed his senior yearling to first place and had the top four placing 3-year-olds, top three 4-year-olds, top four aged cows, the five best udders of the show, the first place senior get and best three females and the top four placings in the Dairy Herd class.

In the Guernsey show, Ann Kopfer of Fleetwood showed her intermediate calf to first place. Richard Hartz, Oley placed first in junior yearlings, followed by Debbie Price, Douglassville, whose junior yearling placed second and Heidi Schelegel, Boyertown, who took third place.

In the senior yearling class, Richard Hartz, Oley placed first followed by his brother, Robert in second place. Heidi Schelegel also received a blue ribbon for her 2-year-old followed by Kevin Schelegel and Richard Hartz. Richard Hartz went on to place first in 3-year-olds while Clayton Snyder, Oley took second place.

Best udder was awarded to Clayton Snyder's cow followed by Richard Hartz, Heidi Schelegel, and Kevin Schelegel who placed fourth. First place dam and daughter was awarded to Richard Hartz.

Grand Champion of the show was won by Richard Hartz and Reserve Grand went to Clayton Snyder.

In the Jersey show, Stephanie Galloway, of Bechtelsville showed her senior yearling to first place. Tom Galloway, also of Bechtelville, had a long list of winners for this breed. His placings included: firsts in Intermediate Calf, Junior Yearlings, 3 Year Olds, 4 Year Olds, and Dam and Daughter classes. He placed third in Senior calf, second and four in Junior Yearlings, fourth and fifth in 2 Year Olds, third in 3 Year Olds, third, fourth, and fifth in Best Udder, second in Dairy Herd and also a third place in Dam and Daughter classes.

(Turn to Page D24)

Kenianne Rarick showed her Limousin x Hereford crossbred steer to the grand championship during the steer competition.

Lisa Bube, Robesonia, was picked as Champion Sheep Showman.

Oley Valley Fair

Judging the beef classes at the Oley Fair was Ken Brubaker of Lancaster County.

Brubaker commented before choosing a Grand and Reserve Champion that the show, small as it may have been, was very hard to judge and picking the champions was very difficult. After much contemplation however the judge chose a three-quarter Limousin crossbred shown by 14-year-old Kenianne Rarick as Champion Market Steer.

Reserve Grand Champion was given to a purebred Charolais steer shown by another 14-year-old, Kirk Fisher. Both exhibitors are ninth graders - Rarick, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Rarick, Reading Rd., at Fleetwood, and Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Fisher, Douglassville, at Oley.

Kenianne has been showing steers in 4-H for the past 6 years and also was named Champion Fitter in the showmanship and fitting competition. Kirk has been showing steers for five years and tried his skills in showing hogs for the first time this show season.

Kirk was named reserve champion fitter in the beef show and also took champion showmanship honors in swine showing.

Champion Showman of the beef show was Mike Strauss, Hamburg. Nineteen-year-old Mike is a 1980 graduate of Hamburg Area High School, now working in construction. This is his tenth year in 4-H showing.

QUARRYVILLE — The Solanco Fair FFA steer sale took place last Friday afternoon at the closing day of the fair. Bernie Houghton, Christiana, showed the grand champion steer for the third year in a row. His 1235-pound steer brought a 30 cent increase over last year's champion. The $2.05 figure totaled $2,531.75.

As has been the tradition for the past 27 years, local grocer, Truman Ferguson was on hand to bid in the top bid for the FFA steer at the Solanco Fair. Swayne Disposal of Quarryville was the final contender to bow to Ferguson's buying bid.

A total of 17 steers were sold Friday afternoon. The reserve grand champion shown by Brett Holzhauer, Holtwood, was purchased by K and S, Inc., R1 Quarryville, for $1.37 a pound. Holzhauer's heavyweight weighed in at 1185 pounds which cost the local equipment firm $1,623.45.

The total sale amounted to $17,018.60 for the 17 head bringing the average paid to $1.10 a pound. Tom Herr's fourth place lightweight sold for 90 cents to James G. Kreider and Son. Willie the Butcher, Wilmer Kreider, Washington Boro, paid 87 cents for Jamie Frey's first place lightweight. Three other steers went for over eighty cents a pound. Mussers at the Buck, Fredd-Eddy Realtors, Quarryville, and Willie the Butcher paid 80 cents, 83 cents and 84 cents for Ernie Frey's second place middleweight, Bill Coyne's third place lightweight and Dwight Herr's third place middleweight, respectively.

The remaining ten animals sold for prices in the seventy cent figures. Brian Trimble's 1080-pound middlweight sold for 78 cents to Kreider Brothers Milk Transportation. The check for $842.40 for Trimble's steer will be given to Teen Challenge, Rehrersburg, it was announced at the close of the sale.

Farmers National Bank of Quarryville, Vernoy from Hickory Hill and Agway also bought steers at the sale.

At the market hog sale which concluded immediately before the FFA steer sale, Friday, the champion hog, shown by Vickie Warfel, R1 Quarryville, brought a record $2.05 from Wilmer Kreider. Her hog weighed 239 pounds, bringing the total to $489.95. Scott Trimble, Peach Bottom, sold his reserve champion hog to Powl's Feed Service, Peach Bottom, for $2.35 a pound. Hatfield Packing contended with the local feed dealer for Scott's 219-pound hog.

Powl's Feed Service paid an even $1 a pound for Karen Kauffman's first place 220-pound middleweight. Hatfield shelled out 85 cents a pound for Richard Baylis's champion pen of two which totaled 435 pounds for the pair. Lancaster Bone, Quarryville, paid 80 cents a pound for Sandy Kauffman's 225-pound second place middleweight. The First National Bank of Lancaster County paid 78 cents for Tracy Landis's reserve champion pen of two which totaled 435 pounds.

New Holland Sales bought Mark Welk's 200-pound hog for 76 cents. Hoober Feed of Paradise and paid Welk 73 cents a pound for his pair lightweights which weighed 395 pounds.

The remainder of the eighty hogs brought prices in the upper 50's and 60's. Agway, New Holland Sales, Fulton Grange #66, Dr. Larry Schmuck, Peach Bottom, Walter Dunlap, Lancaster Stockyards and Vintage Sales Stables, also bought hogs at the sale.

USDA announces more 1982 wheat program provisions

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block recently outlined the U.S. Department of Agriculture's reduced acreage and conservation plans for the 1982 wheat crop. Block said these decisions are contingent on the U.S. Congress passing a new farm bill which authorizes the actions.

Block said farmers who wish to become eligible for price support loans, target price protection and the farmer-owned reserve program must comply with all reduced-acreage requirements. There will be no payments for reduced plantings, Block said.

Block said participating farmers must reduce their acreage of wheat planted for harvest by at least 15 percent from their established wheat acreage base. The base will be the 1981 planted wheat acreage adjusted in cases where there is a regular crop rotation for wheat, he said.

Secondly, farmers must devote to conservation uses an area equal to 17.65 percent of their 1982 wheat acreage planted for harvest (planted 1982 wheat acreage times 17.65 percent equals acreage devoted to conservation uses).

For example, Block said, a farmer with a 1981 planted acreage of 100 acres must plant no more than 85 acres of wheat for 1982 harvest to become eligible for the program. The 15 acres reduced (17.65 percent of 85 acres) must be devoted to a conservation use.

If the farmer planted fewer than the allowed 85 of wheat acres, he or she would be permitted to devote fewer acres to a conservation use. For example, if this farmer planted only 50 acres of wheat, he or she could devote only 8.8 acres to conservation uses (17.65 percent of 50 acres).

The land taken from production and devoted to conservation uses must be eligible cropland, must be protected from wind and water erosion and may not be mechanically harvested. However, farmers will be permitted to graze this acreage except during the six principal growing months.

Farmers participating in the reduced acreage program on one farm must assure USDA that they are not exceeding the 1981 wheat base on any other farms they own or operate.

Farmers are not required to participate in the wheat program to qualify for program benefits on other crops grown on the farm, Block said.

PDA names Harness Racing Commission ex-secretary

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell today announced the appointment of Benjamin F. Mader as Executive Secretary of the State Harness Racing Commission.

Mader's appointment was made by the commission during a meeting Saturday, September 19, at the Keystone Racetrack in Bucks County. The commission members include Chairman Jesse L. Crabbs of Hanover, York County; Francis J. Fitzpatrick, Jr. of Broomall, Delaware County; and James B. Eckenrode, Jr. of Pittsburgh, Allegheny County.

Mader, 50, of Grantville, Dauphin County, assumed the past yesterday. Prior to his appointment to the State Harness Racing Commission, Mader as Administrator of the Pennsylvania Fair Fund, a post he held since early 1979.

"I am extremely pleased that Ben has accepted this position," Hallowell said. "He has an excellent record in the Department of Agriculture and I feel his experience in working with the fair fund made him the best choice for the job."

As Administrator of the State Fair Fund, Mader was responsible for overseeing the distribution of monies, derived from horse and harness racing revenues, to the 107 county fairs in the Commonwealth. The money was used by fair officials to cover the cost of events, exhibitions and premiums.

Mader, as head of the harness racing commission, an independent unit within the Agriculture Department, will oversee the regulations of harness racing with pari-mutual betting throughout the state.

The State Harness Racing Commission also administers for Pennsylvania Sire Stakes Fund, licenses harness racing corporations and supervises harness racing at 22 county fairs in the Commonwealth.

"We worm our cows with TBZ before freshening so when they're ready to milk, they're ready to go!"

says Tom Denlinger of Bareville, PA

Tom Denlinger milks 60 Holsteins and worms each one just before she freshens.

"We used to worm our whole herd at one time, but we didn't notice a change in milk production because a lot of the cows were midway through their lactations. Or tailenders which got wormed long before they came fresh.

"But worming with TBZ® right before they freshen, you're helping to get every cow ready to give more milk as they peak out. They peak sooner and they seem to hold on better."

"You clean pipelines ...why not cows?"

"Worming for us is routine. We clean out everything...the pipeline...the barn. So why not do the same for the cows? When you clean out the worms, whatever the cows eat they can use to make milk."

"Information from vet shows worming pays"

"Our veterinarian gave me information on university tests and it showed worming pays. We've used TBZ ever since. With milk at $13 a hundred, all I need is an extra hundred pounds and I've paid for worming about three times over.

"I just put pellets with TBZ in front of the cow about a week before she freshens. They clean it right up. And TBZ does the job!"

Your dealer, feed supplier, and veterinarian have TBZ in a feed or dosage form that fits your management. Start your prefreshening worming program with TBZ, now.

Pork future remains clouded

UNIVERSITY PARK — The long term decline in percent of disposable consumer income spent for meat is continuing according to Penn State economist H. Louis Moore. In 1980, consumers spent 2.3 percent of their income for beef compared to 2.7 percent 20 years earlier.

During the same 20 year period the proportion of consumer income spent for pork dropped from 1.7 percent to 1.2 percent. While this trend probably reflects growing affluence of U.S. consumers rather than a turn away from meat it has continued into 1981. Consumers have been expressing only a weak desire to buy meat this year, Moore contends.

Like the beef industry, the hog industry has operated at a loss in 1981. This happened because price gains were offset by high feed prices in the first half. Price improvement resulted from a cutback in production. Pork production dropped one percent in the first quarter in 1981, 10 percent in the second quarter and is expected to be down seven percent during the current quarter.

But there is still a large supply of meat on the market as beef production rose a surprising four percent in the second quarter. Broiler production was up six percent during the April-June quarter.

Even smaller supplies of pork seem to be on the horizon. The June 1 Crop Report indicated the total inventory was down eight percent. The breeding inventory is down 12 percent from a year earlier. There should be a tightening of pork supplies as the year progresses. Pennsylvania producers cut back even more than the national average during the March-May period.

The number of sows farrowing in Pennsylvania dropped 16 percent during the period compared to a national drop of 10 percent. The breeding herd reduction was greater in all states outside the Corn-Belt. This can probably be traced to higher feed costs and therefore higher losses in the states outside the Corn-Belt. If corn costs average 44 cents per bushel higher outside the Corn-Belt, this would add about $2.80 per cwt. to production costs in a farrow to finish operation.

Hog prices at Pennsylvania markets are expected to stay above $50 per cwt. for the rest of the year. How much higher will depend on the state of the economy for the rest of the year. If the tax cut aids in improving the economy, hog prices could improve beyond current levels.

In any event, 1982 should bring further cuts in hog production particularly since there have been no profits in the business to date in 1981. If the corn crop continues to improve there may not be as much upward pressure on feed prices as a year ago. Soft red winter wheat will probably be substituted for corn in some hog rations.

The future is still clouded by a number of uncertainties but each passing month seems to bring improvement for hog producers, Moore concludes.

Drivers watch for deer

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania motorists are reminded by the Game Commission that more deer are killed on the state's highways during the hunting seasons than at any other time of the year.

During the fall, whitetails are particularly active. Hunters' movements during small and big game seasons disturb naturally-spooky whitetails, leading deer to head for other hiding places, often crossing highways to reach their destination.

Deer may suddenly bound onto the road in front of vehicles, and drivers should be constantly alert. The danger can be as great in the daytime as it is at night.

While the problem is generally more prevalent in "deer country," motorists should know that vehicles kill deer in every county, including Philadelphia.

Deer, like most wildlife species, are creatures of habit. They often follow the same trails and cross highways at the same locations. PennDOT has placed thousands of warning signs along roads where whitetails frequently cross. If heeded, these signs can prevent many unfortunate accidents.

However, whitetails can be expected to cross highways at any location. Reduced speed lessens the danger.

Motorists should also be alert for that second or third deer. Often, a driver misses a whitetail or two, then relaxes, only to hit another deer a few yards down the road.

MILK GENERATOR'S

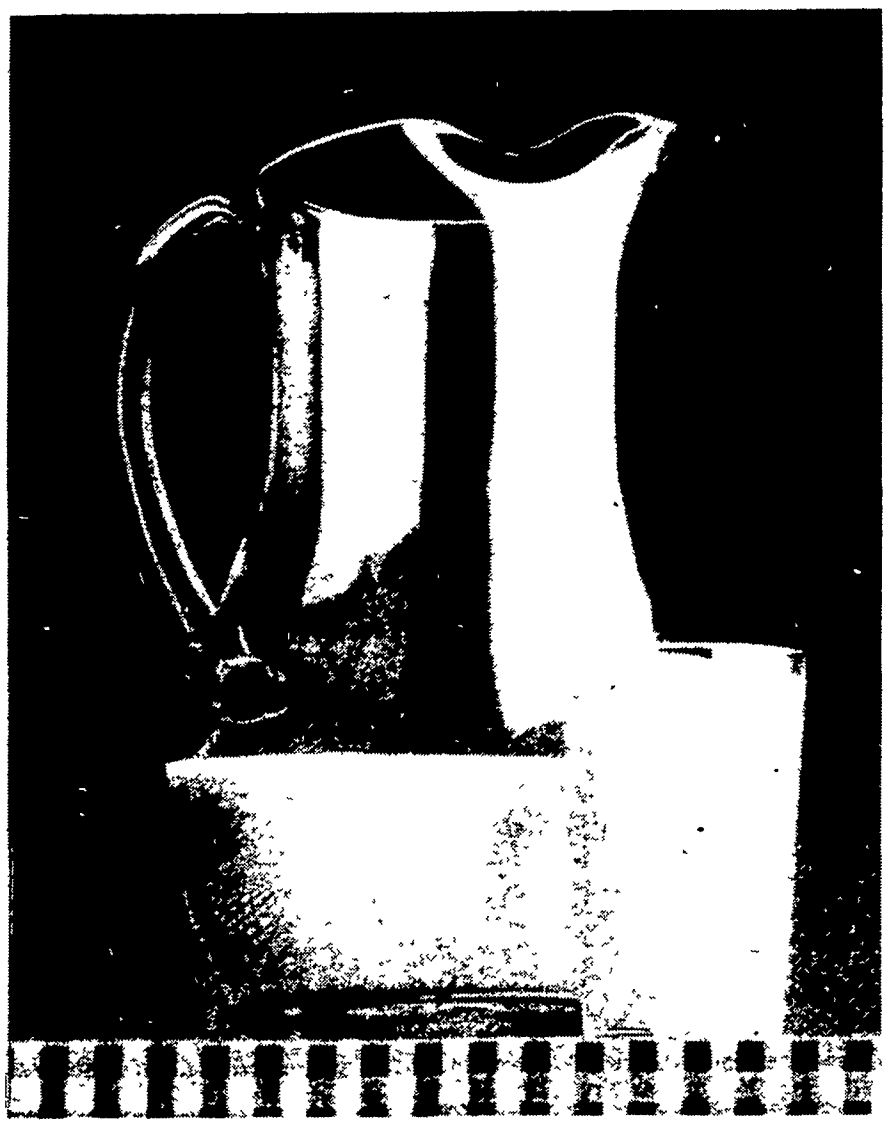
PURINA'S NEW COMPLETE FEED LINE-UP!

MAKE THE MOST MILK FOR YOUR MONEY

We're proud to announce Purina® Milk Generator™, the latest advancement in our company's long history of new and improved dairy rations.

Purina Milk Generator is the line of complete milking rations formulated to help you make the most milk for the money.

The Purina Milk Generator line was based on a new development which measures the relative total nutritional capabilities between rations. Each ration is rated by Purina's new Total Nutritional Index, or TNI.



TNI is a result of more than 50 years of continuous research by Purina Dairy nutritionists.

The Milk Generator line provides a specific balance of energy, proteins, minerals, and vitamins. This balance increases the capability for higher long-term milk persistency while maintaining high current milk production.

See your Purina Dealer today and ask him.

ALONG WITH SOMETHING NEW, COMES SOMETHING FREE:

The "new" is our Purina Milk Generator line of milking rations and the "free" is our Big Ton get-acquainted offer. For each ton of Milk Generator you buy for delivery from September twenty-eighth through October ninth, we'll add a hundred pounds of free feed to your order. New Purina Milk Generator and the Big Ton special. Two good ways to help you make the most milk for the money.
